Farm Store Livelihood Depends On Conservation

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

SCHNECKSVILLE (Lehigh Co.) — "You don't pass the buck in this operation. You can't say it's the farmer who grew the grain or the farmer who milked the cows or the plant that processed the product."

For Hubert Sell, owner of Crystal Spring Farm in North Whitehall Township, those words ring true for any family farm that sells its own products. Crystal Spring is a farm in the Lehigh Valley that sells the products it produces at its own farm store.

And taking the responsibility for what goes on at the farm extends throughout the operation, including managing the land — and caring for the soil — on which the Sell family's livelihood rests.

Crystal Spring Farm was recently honored as the Conservation Farm of the Year by the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts. The farm is managed by Hubert and Grace Sell and their family, sons Scott, Ron, and Gary, and daughter Audrey.

The farm encompasses 310 acres, of which 130 are owned and 180 are rented. A total of 250 acres are tilled. The Sells maintain about 20 acres in pasture and nine acres in woodland and wetland.

The dairy includes 150 milk cows and 75 replacements of grade Holstein. The Sells are not Pa.DHIA members, and do their own production tests using a computerized milk system. The herd averages about 21,000 pounds.

Hubert said that he began farming the land, leased from his father Frank, in 1960, with 24 milk cows. The same year his father died, in

Scams Now Running On Lancaster Farms

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) - An officer of the Pennsylvania State Police at the Lancaster headquarters called in a warning Wednesday afternoon about several large-scale scams under way that threaten Lancaster County farmers.

Most recently, an Amish farmer in the Kinzers area was approached by the perpetrators with an offer to install lighting rods on his barn. The cost was quoted at $200-$300. When the job was finished, the farmer was handed a bill for more than $1,000. Even if the police could find the people behind the scam, since some work was done, they could not be prosecuted.

Good Receives Honorary Award

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Lou Ann Good, staff writer for Lancaster Farming, received the Pennsylvania Extension Association of Family and Consumer Sciences State Honorary Award on Thursday. The Association presented the award at its annual recognition breakfast held at Atherton Hotel, University Park.

The award is given for promoting, fostering, and upholding the ideals of extension family living

PFB Selects Finalists For Award

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — The Pennsylvania Farm Bureau has announced its finalists for its Young Farmers and Ranchers Achievement Award.

The winner will be announced during PFB's annual meeting, Nov. 17-19, at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center in Hershey.

Several hundred farmers, including 171 voting delegates, are expected to attend the annual meeting to elect leaders and adopt policies for the statewide farm-advocacy organization. PFB represents 25,207 farm and rural families in 54 local county farm bureaus. It is also affiliated with the 4.7-million member American Farm Bureau Federation.

Relevant policies adopted during the annual meeting will be sent to the AFBF for consideration in developing national policy.

One of several awards to be presented during the convention, the PFB Young Farmer and Rancher Achievement Award is open to PFB members aged 18-35 who have exhibited exceptional business and leadership achievements.

The winner of the award will be announced during the President's Luncheon, at noon on Tuesday, Nov. 18. Prizes for the statewide winner include a $500 cash award from Dodge Truck, and a trip to compete for national honors during the AFBF convention in Charlotte, North Carolina, in January.

The three finalists are A. Louis and Gail Diamond of Masontown, in Fayette County; Patrick Greaser of Sewickley, Beaver County; and Myron and Lorene Bonzo of Rochester, also in Beaver County.

A. Louis & Gail Diamond

A. Louis Diamond operates a 500-acre farm with 155 milk cows in a three-way partnership with his father and a brother.

In the three years since Diamond has been involved with the partnership, milk production has improved from an average production per cow of 18,500 pounds of milk to a herd average of 21,600 pounds.

During that time, the operation has gone to three-times-per day milkings, hired an independent nutrition consultant, purchased a

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

NOVEMBER 10-16, 1997

FULL BEAVER MOON, NOV. 14.

THE NORTH WIND DOTH BLOW...

If it was unseasonably cold at Halloween, then weather-lore predicts a period of unseasonably warm weather, or Indian Summer, around St. Martin's (Nov. 11) until about November 20. Use the good weather for those last-minute winter preparations. Have you had your chimney cleaned? Your furnace air ducts and filters checked? Is your wood all split, or as near to it as you're apt to get? If you're left with a few, huge unsplittables, put aside the splitting wedge and maul, and think toward Christmas. Everyone needs a yule log of exemplary proportions...

While we consider when to begin, it becomes too late.

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Light bulbs can lose up to 40 percent of their efficiency if covered with dust or grease, so clean them occasionally.

NEW ENGLAND BOILED DINNER

5 pounds corned beef
8 large carrots, sliced
6 medium onions, quartered
2 small turnips, cubed
8 potatoes, quartered
1 small head cabbage, cut in wedges
pepper and parsley, to taste

Place the meat in a Dutch oven and cover with water. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, and simmer, covered, about 3½ hours, or until tender. After 2½ hours, skim off the fat and add the prepared vegetables, holding out the potatoes and cabbage until the last half hour of cooking. Season, and serve on a large platter, with additional parsley to garnish.

Makes 8 to 10 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Where the wind is on Martinmas Eve (Nov. 10), there it will be for the rest of winter.

If the weather is dry and cold on St. Martin's Day (Nov. 11), the winter will not last long.

If All Saints (Nov. 1) brings out winter, St. Martin's (Nov. 11) brings out Indian Summer.

Scams Now Running On Lancaster Farms

Of course, there was no written agreement, and no company name was given. An 800 number just gets you an answering service so there is no real tracer to the people involved.

Two more scams in southern Lancaster County involve sealing driveways and fixing chimneys. The driveways are sealed with a chemical that washes off with the first rain, and the chimneys are fixed with plaster of paris.

Amish farmers seem to be targeted, but all farmers need to be alert. It was an Amish farmer that asked the policeman to contact Lancaster Farming as the best way to warn other farmers about these scams.

Whenever you agree to have work done around your farm, be sure you are dealing with a firm or person who has a good reputation and is well-known in the community. Ask for references from other jobs that have been completed. Get a company name, address, and telephone number.

Get price quotes from several firms. Always sleep on it. A reputatable firm will be glad for your business tomorrow. If it seems too good to be true, it probably is.

And be especially careful right now because people running scams are on the loose in Lancaster County. And they could show up anywhere in Pennsylvania or in neighboring states.

❖ FARM FORUM ❖

Editor,

I am submitting a poem for your consideration for printing. As an ex farm boy, I deeply the farmers needs in this hour. So many farms are going under, the younger generation so often wants the big money for their parents lands etc. And where our Government should back the farmers in every way so often they show no concern.

As an ex Farmer, I can readily appreciate the plight of today's Farmer. So many of them are finding their farms auction off — their life's work gone with the pound of the gavel on the auction block. The following poem is a tribute to all such farmers.

The Farmer

He stood where he had stood, for many years,
Feeling the power and the pull of the land;
His greying hair ruffled by the western breeze,
Today was different. It was hard to understand.

He scanned the far off green pasture lands
Where cattle had trod trails morning and night;
He looked at the early morning rising sun,
Thought: such power, such majesty, such might!

He was stirred by the sounds of the barnyard,
Hens cackling, cows mooing, all dependent upon man;
Old Shep, with tail wagging, was ready to follow,
Shep wondered why today seemed a different plan.

He looked to his house, where with wife and children
They had been so close as the years had flown by;
He remembered nights so pleasant around the kitchen table,
With his hand he brushed a tear from his eye.

He knelt in an act of so final a surrender,
And felt the earth so, cold, cold, cold;
While the words echoed throughout his mind
With the bang of that gavel: sold! sold! sold!

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Know Forage Quality

Because of this summer's drought conditions, forage crop yields were down on many farms. However, quality was generally good. Because of the shorter growth, this year's forages had less stalk and fiber content with a higher concentration of nutrient rich leaves and grain.

According to Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County Extension Dairy Agent, this makes our forages looking more like a supplement, lower in fiber and higher in energy and protein. When this kind of forage is fed, there is less need to feed grain and expensive supplements. What is really needed is more effective fiber. This may be supplied by feeding more longer stemmed or coarsely chopped forages.

To Balance Cow Rations

Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County Extension Dairy Agent, remind us if cows have been having low fat tests, appetites are sluggish, lose too much flesh and lose flesh too quickly, fail to peak well and drop off milk too quickly, are "loose" and passing undigested grain and fiber in their feces, tend to be ketotic and develop laminitis, chances are they may be consuming too much grain or protein. These problems are costly.

With today's slim margins, there is no room for costly mistakes. Test your forages for nutritive value and consult a trained nutritionist for specific recommendations. Formulate a balanced ration and feed it properly. Aim to maintain an even level of high activity in the rumen throughout the day.

Total mixed rations may help you accomplish this. Otherwise, avoid feeding large slugs of grain at any one time. Limit intakes to about 6 to 8 pounds per feeding. Try to feed some forages before feeding grain.

To Test For MUN

Excess protein in the ration and in the blood stream is expensive and unhealthy, according to Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County Extension Dairy Agent. One good way to monitor protein metabolism in dairy cattle is to use the milk urea nitrogen (MUN) test on individual cows on a regular basis.

This may be done through the DHIA program. Normal MUN vales are 12 to 16 mg/dl. Higher levels mean: 1. Too much protein is being fed. 2. Rumen degradable protein levels are high. 3. Too little rumen degradable energy is being fed. Thus, not all of the rumen degradable protein can be utilized and some of it spills over into the blood stream as urea nitrogen.

This is a costly situation for several reasons 1. More purchased feed ends up being excreted and wasted. 2. A considerable amount of energy is needed to metabolize and excrete the excess protein. Less energy is available to the cow. As a result, milk production, body condition and conception suffer.

MUN values generally increase when rations contain increased amounts of haylage, lush pastures and rapidly digested protein supplements such as soybean oil meal and urea. This is especially true when there is not an accompanying decrease in the use of protein supplements and an increase in the amount of rumen degradable energy being fed, such as high moisture corn, barley, wheat, molasses, etc.

Low levels of MUN may result from feeding too little protein, too little rumen degradable protein or too little energy. This is more apt to occur on rations containing considerable amounts of hay, especially low protein and low energy hay.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "Pride is a personal commitment; it is an attitude which separates excellence from mediocrity."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

IN OVER YOUR HEAD?

November 9, 1997

Background Scripture:
Ezra 9:1 through 10:17
Devotional Reading:
Deuteronomy 6:1-9

You probably have never heard a sermon on Ezra 9 and 10 and you are not ever likely to do so. Why? For one thing, because the situation in these two chapters seems utterly irrelevant to our own situation today.

Who today can relate to Ezra's violent reaction in learning that many of the men of Israel have taken foreign wives? Ezra is more than a little upset: "When I heard this, I rent my garments and my mantle, and pulled hair from my head and beard, and sat appalled." And when he calls upon God in prayer, he says: "Oh my God, I am ashamed and blush to lift my face to thee, my God, for our iniquities have risen higher than our heads, and our guilt has mounted up to the heavens" (Ezra 9:3,6).

Reading that, I just could not relate, either to the reason for his concern or the depth of his response. Inter-religious marriages can certainly cause some problems, but do they call for that kind of response?

Ezra also raises a concept which waves a red flag to many of us: "the holy race has mixed itself with the peoples of the lands" (9:2b). Generally, not only do we as Christians not think of ourselves as a "holy race," but even the suggestion of this concept seems out of place in the day in which we live. I bristle when it seems that Ezra is saying that the "holy race" of Israel has been polluted because of intermarriage with other races not so holy.

ADULTERATED FAITH

After some consideration, however, I can understand Ezra's point of view. The problem is that the faith of Israel has been adulterated with the religious influence, practices and values of these pagan peoples. The intermarriage between these peoples has materially weakened and perverted the faith of Israel. And with that concern I can identify very well. The problem is not with the foreign wives per se, but with the destructive influences they have introduced to Jews returned from exile.

Actually, this is a very real and current problem for Christianity. Not because of intermarriage necessarily, but for a number of reasons I see Christianity has having been seriously watered down with ideas, values and practices which, apart from our professions of faith, render it often indistinguishable from the rest of society. At work, in the market place, in our citizenship, in our community life, in our families, what is there in the way that we live that marks us and our church as 'Christian' as distinct from the secular world?

Does the way we do our daily work or practice our profession make us any different than the way that others do? Do we run our churces according to Christian values or by the values of the market place? Does our response to "the least of these my brethren" — the hungry, the poor, the naked, the lost, the prisioners — reflect the gospel of Jesus Christ or the philosophy of our political party? Do our churches incarnate the true differences between the Church and religious clubs?

WHAT WE MUST DO

If in any way you share the belief that, like the people of Israel in Ezra's day," our iniquities have risen higher than our heads," he has shown us what we must do about it. Ezra's prayer of confession and contrition is one of the great prayers of the Bible. Ezra does not make any alibis, but states plainly that "our guilt has mounted up to the heavens." We are told that "a very great assembly of men, women and children, gathered to him out of Israel" and "they wept bitterly."

But neither Ezra, nor the people who came to hear him, were willing to let it go at being sorry. Ezra challenged them: "Therefore let us make a covenant with God to put away all these wives and their children..." (10:3). Beyond feeling penitent the people were called to make a covenant that would produce results. I am not suggesting for one moment that we, too, ought to "put away" our spouses and children. Our situation is different and the solution most certainly is different, too.

So, beyond feeling sorry, what should we do when, as individuals and as churches, we are into the way of the world over our heads?

RX601 Hybrid Seed Corn

AG3001 Soybeans Roundup Ready™

AG3601 Soybeans Roundup Ready™ - STS®

ASGROW

When You Lead, Everyone Else Has To Follow.

Northeast corn and soybean producers have been relying on high performance Asgrow corn and Asgrow world-class soybean seed for many years with exciting results.

RX601 is a105 day maturity hybrid that has exhibited excellent yield potential. Strong emergence gives RX601 a fast start in early planting situations and maintains good leaf disease tolerance, including Gray leaf spot. Yield is safe through harvest with sturdy roots and stalks.

AG3001 is a early group III maturity variety with very high yield potential. Emergence is excellent for a strong, fast start and this variety also adapts well to conventional and no-till environments. To help you manage this performance, AG3001 is Roundup Ready™, providing flexible and effective herbicide control.

AG3601 is a mid-group III variety that has shown high yields and good disease resistance, including Phytophthora root rot. Adaptable and solid, AG3601 is also Roundup Ready™ and an STS® variety with tolerance to sulfonylurea herbicides.

USDA-OK Dept Ag Market News
Oklahoma National Stockyards - Weekly Cattle Summary

Compared to last week: Feeder steers steady to 1.00 lower. Feeder heifers firm. Demand moderate for steers; good demand for heifers with most guaranteed open in contrast to pot luck in past several weeks. Steer and heifer calves steady. Calf demand moderate as buyers continue on the cautious side. Calf quality improved from last week with several in lighter flesh as weaning time extending or grass losing protein value. Calves still in medium to fleshy condition but less numbers in plumb fat category. Weigh-ups of feeders and calves average to full. Slaughter cows 1.00 lower. Slaughter bulls steady. Demand light to moderate for bulk of cows; however good demand for numerous thin Canner types as country buyers aggressive for these to return to country for upgrading. 950 cows and bulls sold with 50 percent to packers. Receipts this week 14,475; last week 9,479; last year 16,290. Supply consisted of 44 percent yearlings and calves over 600 lbs; 49 percent calves under 600 lbs; 7 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

Scrambler 4 x 4

And The Newest Dealer Who Sells Them.

We couldn't find a better ATV to handle, and neither will you. Just turn the key, push the throttle and go.
You don't have to do the shifting because it's automatic with the Polaris Variable Transmission (PVT). You can stop with just one hand, thanks to a hydraulic braking system that slows all wheels evenly. And the Polaris ATV's can turn on a dime.
One should fit you just right, like the new Xplorer 400L or the liquid-cooled Scrambler 4 x 4.
Now that we have them all, maybe you should have one.

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pa. DHIA Technicians' Advisory Committee met last week at the Penn State Days Inn in State College.

The function of the meeting was to hear staff updates and critique the activities of the organization and to help set policy. This is instrumental to the staff in setting future goals for the cooperative.

The highlights of the meeting included receiving a report from Jim Boyer, processing manager, enlightening the committee on the expected availability of a computerized heifer management program by year-end. Setting the final price for this program will be forthcoming.

Currently, processing is in process of creating a fact sheet, which identifies the different type of computerized dairy management systems that are available to today's modern dairymen. It was also decided that barn cards should receive a different design. In order to accommodate this request, the committee designed a new updated barncard. This will be very instrumental in marketing the barncard option throughout all the Pa. DHIA service area.

The committee finished the agenda by critiquing the recent fall conference and decided to hold the fall conference next year in State College once again.

For Sells, Farm Store Livelihood

1965, Sell and Grace purchased the farm.

In 1970, the Sells installed a freestall barn and silos. As the herd size was increased, the same year a double-6 herringbone milking parlor was installed, with 12 milking units.

In 1975, a 7,200 square foot farm store was built. Hubert noted that the store began as a way to recoup some of the loss when the Lehigh Valley Milk Co-Op went bankrupt, which caused great consternation with the family.

"We wanted to determine our own destiny as closely as we could," said Hubert. "We didn't want to rely on somebody else."

Back then, they sold milk in varying containers and percentages of milkfat. Then, "we were lucky" if the store sold 50 gallons of skim milk a week, said Sell. Now, the major portion of the milk sold at the store is low-fat. Two percent milk is a favorite, according to sales figures.

'We're six in this family, and anything you can do to keep any ill feelings (at bay) — they all have their hearts in it, they're all proud of what they do.'

But the store itself was begun with the intention of selling other items as well. First it was a full-service, seven-day-a- week family restaurant. But after 10 years of operation ("We made good money," Sell said), "We had family burnout." At the peak of the restaurant business, Crystal Spring included a steam bar.

But now "all we do is have deli items," he noted, with an ice cream parlor. The parlor is a favorite for visitors. This past August, Sell noted the store made 1,000 gallons of ice cream for customers.

The ice cream business has prevailed because of the time the business spent in developing flavors that met their own expectations. But it's a challenge to "come up with something that really has good mouth feel, good flavor, and flavor left in the mouth," Sell said.

"If you use fresh milk and fresh cream and use natural products, natural flavorings, that helps," he said.

Sell hears customer comments about the ice cream they sell.

'It doesn't just benefit the environment. It benefits the farmer's pocketbook.'

"If there's a problem, you're going to hear that (from customers) real quick," Sell noted. "If it's really good, if they're really tickled with it, you won't hear as much comment, but you'll have feedback on it."

At one time the farm store tried selling homegrown produce. But the work was too time-consuming for the Sells, and they went locally to other growers to pick up produce.

Sell noted that each of his sons already average 90 hours per week of work, and have worked up to 100 hours. He knows, because his sons punch a time clock and get paid by the hour.

Sell believes that is the fair way to handle payment for family members on a farm.

"We're six in this family, and anything you can do to keep any ill feelings (at bay) — they all have their hearts in it, they're all proud of what they do. They're all doing a bangup job. They're doing a so much better job than I could."

One son, Ron, manages Crystal Spring Electric, a company that contracts for private businesses and home. The farm company was instrumental in wiring a new office constructed at the farm, including security and water monitoring systems. The company also installed a network of 10 computers, all with Windows NT software with access to the Internet at every location, according to Ron.

The computers monitor time charged to the clock, using time clock job-costing software. The software is undergoing testing and will be up and running soon.

All of Sell's sons grew up in the business and understand the different aspects. Ron is in charge of the electrical and computer monitoring of the business. Gary is in charge of the crops and does some milking. Scott is the herdsman in charge of feeding and care of the animals.

Audrey, their daughter, is in charge of payroll and all ordering for the store. Two daughter- in-laws — Lisa, Scott's wife, works in the business and Ron's wife, Susan, markets the business. Audrey's son, Chris, 14, helps milk and her other son, Adam, 16, freezes and packages ice cream and helps in the retail operation.

There are several standout features of the state conservation farm. Sell, a county conservation district cooperator since 1967, constructed a glass-lined steel manure storage facility in 1985. Storage capacity is 500,000 gallons, which is emptied about three times a year.

According to Sell, the last 10 years the farm has been practicing nutrient management by starting with a storage area. All the manure goes into the storage facility.

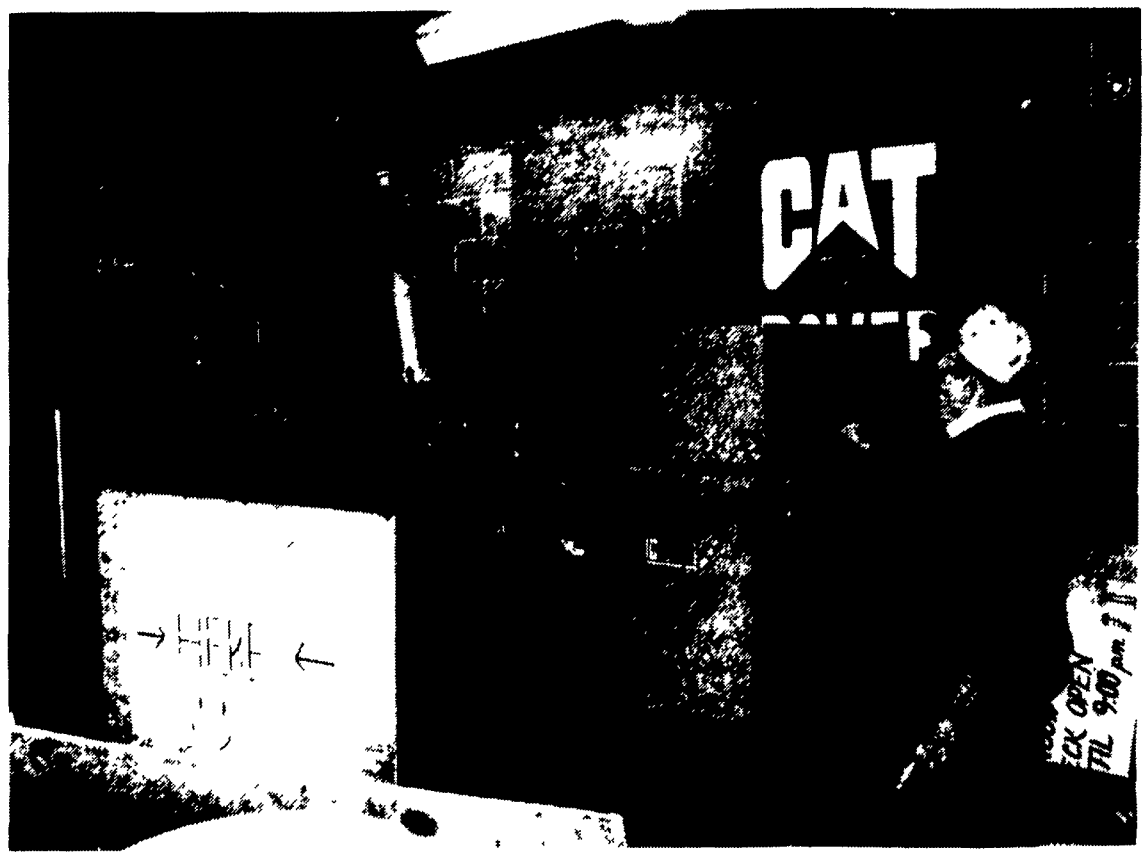
Sell quickly points out how important it is to have the storage facility.

"It doesn't just benefit the environment. It benefits the farmer's pocketbook. Those nutrients are worked right in immediately. We want every ounce of nutrient plant food available in the manure. Another reason is, we're up against a lot of development, and the sooner we get that manure in and under, the sooner we can get rid of the odor or fly problems that could develop."

To protect Coplay Creek and the spring on their farm, they recently converted 10 acres of highly erodible cropland to permanent pasture.

All of Sell's sons grew up in the business and understand the different aspects. Ron is in charge of the electrical and computer monitoring of the business. Gary is in charge of the crops and does some milking. Scott is the herdsman in charge of feeding and care of the animals. From left, Scott, Ron, Gary, Grace, and Hubert Sell.

They double-crop rye on 65 acres which allows them to utilize more of their manure in the fall. Corn acreage numbers about 165 acres and alfalfa about 80 acres. Gary Sell feeds the heifers.



In 1975, a 7,200 square foot farm store was built. Here, Hubert Sell switches off the 205 kilowatt, 314-horsepower generator.

...of Depends On Conservation

They also upgraded the existing pastures to get more cows out of the barn for longer periods of time. While they don't use intensive rotational grazing, the pastures are used as exercise areas for the cows.

Recently the Sells installed 500 feet of streambank fencing and put in protected crossings and three livestock watering troughs. Fencing was also used to set up pasture subdivisions and to improve forage quality in a rotational grazing system. The cows no longer need to rely on water from Coplay Creek, which runs through the farm.

Sell noted, "We fenced in the side away from the barn and installed self-contained springwater tile systems for the cows to drink out of, instead of the cows going to the creek to drink. The spring water is cold, it's flowing constantly, it's clean, it's clear, it's so much better than creekwater and they know that."

Sell noted, "I want us to be seen as a (family) that is doing their utmost not to pollute."

According to information supplied by the district, the Sells apply various conservation practices on their cropland. They have installed 1,500 feet of grassed waterway, 1,700 feet of diversions, 53 acres of contour strip cropping, and one water control structure.

They double-crop rye on 65 acres which allows them to utilize more of their manure in the fall. Corn acreage numbers about 165 acres and alfalfa about 80 acres.

Sell believes he has an aggressiveness about practicing conservation.

But he also knows how things have changed, compared to the way he farmed as a kid.

"My dad was a very aggressive farmer for his time," he said.

Back then, Lehigh County was a big potato-producer. At the time, blight problems threatened crops all the time. His dad, Frank, came up with a way to use lime and bluestone in water to protect potato leaves from fungus.

One cool, rainy year, potato farmers in the county suffered terribly from the blight. But Hubert's father had a crop.

"He was one of the pioneers in our area in using chemicals (on that farm) to kill blight disease." Only thing is, Hubert remembers that not much caution was used when applying the chemicals.

"We were so liberal with (them)," he noted. "You didn't worry about this stuff. When I was a kid, I used to drive a spray truck. I smoked then. You'd light up cigarettes, you'd smoke, and then, coming from the spray rig, all of a sudden the cigarette tasted sweet and you'd throw it away. We had no shirt on and you'd be wet when you were done.

"How things have changed," he said.

These days, his advice to farmers starting out is "buy a brand new big round baler.

"If you make a mistake, which we're all going to make, just make up your mind that you're going to have to work hard to overcome it. You can overcome a mistake. The person that never did anything never made a mistake."

'If there's a problem, you're going to hear that (from customers) real quick. If it's really good, if they're really tickled with it, you won't hear as much comment.'

The dairy includes 150 milk cows and 75 replacements of grade Holstein. The Sells are not Pa.DHIA members, and do their own production tests using a computerized milk system. The herd averages about 21,000 pounds.

Back then, they sold milk in varying containers and percentages of milkfat. Then, "we were lucky" if the store sold 50 gallons of skim milk a week, said Sell. Now, the major portion of the milk sold at the store is low-fat. Two percent milk is a favorite, according to sales figures.

FFA Members Receive National Recognition

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — National recognition will be given to Pennsylvania FFA members at the world's largest annual youth gathering, the 70th National FFA Convention to be held Nov. 13-15 in Kansas City, Mo. More than 44,000 FFA members, guests, and supporters are expected to attend.

This year's convention theme, "Building the Future," symbolizes the agricultural education organization's mission to prepare students to create the best possible future for themselves, their communities, the agricultural industry, and the nation. Opportunities for personal growth and leadership development continue with presentations by educational and motivational speakers, including Ron Archer, motivational speaker; Dr. Lowell Catlett, agricultural futurist; Edward James Olmos, actor; Heather Whitestone-McCallum, former Miss America; Orion Samuelson, agricultural broadcaster for Channel Earth Communications; and Ted Waitt, Chairman and CEO of Gateway 2000.

Laser light shows will be part of each convention session, courtesy of the Kansas City convention sponsors as a special project of the National FFA Foundation, Inc.

In addition, convention participants will have opportunities to attend leadership workshops, tour Kansas City manufacturing and agribusiness sites, take in American Royal Livestock Show and Rodeo performances, and meet with fellow FFA members from around the nation.

Other highlights will include the selection of top FFA members in 41 agricultural proficiency award areas, national career development events, prepared and extemporaneous public speaking contests, and a parliamentary procedure contest. The American Star Farmer and American Star in Agribusiness will be named, and 1,711 members will receive the American FFA Degree, the organization's highest award. Top chapters based on their overall success at involving members will also be recognized. In addition, the 1997-1998 national FFA officers will be elected and installed. The National Agricultural Career Show and the National FFA Alumni Convention are held in conjunction with the FFA convention.

Lancaster Farmland Trust Honors 15 Land Benefactors

MT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — The annual meeting of the Lancaster Farmland Trust was held last evening at the Country Table restaurant. Fifteen new land benefactors were recognized, new officers were elected, and reports of the progress of agriculture land preservation were given.

In the executive director's report, Tom Stouffer said that the trust had never preserved more than 11 farms in any one year until 1997. By the end of the year, 16 farms are expected to be preserved, bringing the total to 81 farms and over 5,200 acres. Lancaster County has been designated as one of the world's most endangered sites by the World Monument Association. This heightens awareness of the problems of sprawl and farmland loss.

Stouffer said we are reaping the seeds that have been sown since the preservation movement began in the mid '70s. One out of every five acres preserved in Lancaster County has been preserved through the trust. This is significant because these are real land donors with substantial donations of the value of the easements made by the farm families involved. More than one out of five farms saved by the trust comes from Old Order Amish farmers because trust of private rather than governmental organization.

Next year, the trust will celebrate the tenth year in operation. The goal is to raise $200,000 and have a celebration of 100 farms preserved at that time.

In the election of trustees, John H. Schwartz is president; Stephen M. Kraybill, vice president; Terry R. Scheetz, secretary, and Philip W. Kimmel, treasurer.

Board members are Barbara Shaw, Christian Herr, Kenneth H. Messner, and Amos M. Beiler. Also Christopher C. Barton, James R. Clark, Carolyn A. Kilgour, Stephen D. Lockey III, James R. Shirk, and Gini L. Wagner.

The outstanding donor award went to Conrad W. Nelson. Gini Wagner, Ruben Weaver, and Rebecca Weiss were honored as volunteers of the year.

Recognized as 1997 land benefactors are:

Land Benefactors — 1997 Annual Dinner

Lancaster Farmland Trust honored the following fourteen landowners who have preserved their farms since the last annual dinner meeting:

Joseph G. Chamberlain is a Chester County businessman and has garnered much joy from reinvesting his profits back into farmland, renting the farms to young Amish families starting out, and taking a genuine interest in helping them eventually purchase the farms. He owns three adjacent farms in Little Britain Township along Ashville Road, close to the Octoraro reservoir. Two of the farms are productive dairies and one is a small greenhouse and vegetable operation. He preserved the three farms totaling 160 acres last Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Esh are Old Order Amish farmers. They have preserved two farms, creating a block of 122 preserved acres in East Lampeter Township.

P. Robert and Deborah Wenger operate a 240 acre dairy along Cardinal Road in East Drumore Township. They farm with the help of two sons, and have recently experimented with milking three times a day, three days a week, to increase milk production. They are active volunteers in the Solanco Fair and continue to show cows at the local and state fairs. They preserved the farm last December.

Wayne and Vera Hottenstein own 26 acres alonig State Road in East Hempfield Township. The property is part of the original Hottenstein homestead which has been in the family for over 200 years. They learned about preservation from their attorney and from fellow easement donor and friend, Daniel Rohrer. There are now four farms preserved in East Hempfield, west of East Petersburg Borough.

Henry and Verna Stoltzfus decided to preserve a 62 acre dairy farm in East Donegal Township along Musser Road after reading an article about preservation in the Lancaster New Era. They drove across the county to New Holland to visit with the farmer featured in the article, and decided they were interested in doing the same. Henry is a founder of the agri-business Lancaster Level Flow. He and Verna have rented the farm for years to the same family; in fact, the second generation of that family is now farming the land.

Mrs. Martha Mayer decided to preserve her 100 acre farm after learning that one of her neighbors, Victor Engle, did the same. The farm was purchased by her parents in 1904, about the time Martha was born. It is farmed by a neighbor, Russell Swarr, who is also preserving his farm. It consists of 98 acres of tillable land along Garfield Road in Rapho Township.

Mrs. Paulyne Long and Mrs. Janet Eshelman preserved their father's farm in 1993 and are now preserving 15 acres of meadow and wetland as open space and a private nature preserve. This quiet oasis is sandwiched between their family farm, now owned by an Amish neightbor, and another preserved farm owned by David Byers. The wetland, which contains headwaters of the Conowingo Creek, has been studied this fall by a senior biology class at Millersville University led by Dr. Guy Stuececk, and it has been found to be in excellent condition.

Mrs. Ruth E. Stolzfus was the gracious hostess of 300 of the Trust's members at our annual picnic in September. Her farm, known as "Greystone Manor", is situated along Oregon Pike in Manheim and Warwick townships. Mrs. Stoltzfus and the Trust thrilled the crowd with the announcement that 325 acres of the farm will be preserved in a joint preservation project among the Trust, the Lancaster County Agricultural Preserve Board, and Manheim Township and Warwick Township officials. This public-private partnership of the Trust, as a non-profit organization, county agency and two municipalities is one of the most complex projects the Trust has been involved in to date. We are all very pleased that the efforts to preserve this significant farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Stoltzfus The Old Order Amish family is preserving a scenic 55 acre dairy farm will be the first preserved in Bart Township.

Mr. and Mrs. Esh operate a dairy farm near the village of Monterey, south of Leola. This Old Order Amish family learned about preservation from their neighbor. They preserved 63 acres in Upper Leacock and 53 acres in Colerain Township in October.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller also farm near the village of Monterey in Upper Leacock Township. They are preserving a 55 acre dairy farm.

Mr. John K. Stolzfus is preserving a 67 acre dairy farm along Newport Road in Leacock Township, 2 miles northwest of the village of Intercourse.

Rod W. Harnish is one of the earliest supporters of Lancaster Farmland Trust and one of the first easement donors, having protected a property in southern Martic Township situated adjacent to the Tucquan Nature Preserve. As a successful businessman who builds communication towers, he has reinvested his profits into land, and he is now preserving a second farm he purchased adjacent to the first along Pinnacle Road.

H. Eugene and Karen L. Garber are preserving a fourth property this year along Maytown Road in East Donegal Township. The bare land will be joined with another farm, his 45 acre preserved farm, to make one 84 acre preserved farm. Significantly, all of the other adjacent landowners have preserved their farms, so the preservation of this 39 acres fills in the last piece of a large preservation puzzle, further securing East Donegal farmers as leaders in the county's (and the nation's) preservation efforts. This is the 52nd farm to be preserved in that township.

portable mixer and begun forage testing. Extra bunk space has also been added and improvements made in barn ventilation.

Other changes on the farm include a new high moisture corn silo, a second 1,250-gallon milk tank, a 96-foot by 44-foot addition to the free-stall barn, and an office and a calf-bucket wash room were built adjacent to the milk house. They also purchased a new forage wagon and manure spreader.

The new office contains a PFA FACCTS computer for bookkeeping and a microwave oven for forage testing. The PFA FACCTS computer is a business service available to PFB members.

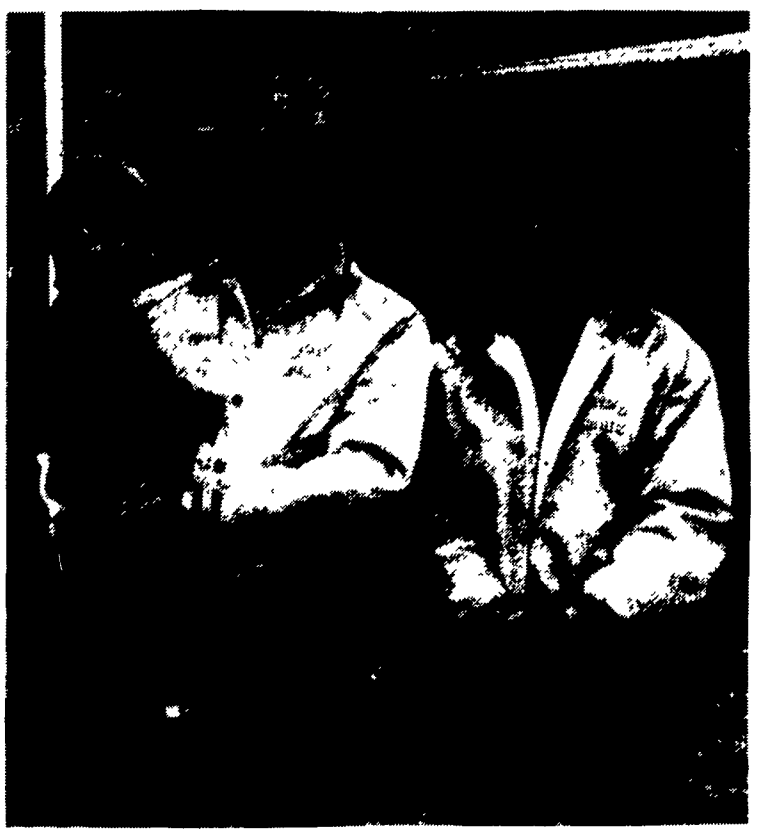
A second farm with 152 acres has been purchased and provides an extra silo and buildings for equipment storage and a place to raise heifers.

The partnership holds regular planning meetings and uses two-way radios for on-farm communications.

Diamond has been active in his community, as well.

He was instrumental in convincing the Fayette County commissioners to start a farmland preservation program, and he is chariman of the county agricultural land preservation board.

The board anticipates it will soon have concluded its first purchase of development rights.



Myron Bonzo family

Further, Diamond is a local affairs director for the county Farm Bureau. In the past, he headed up a local Operation Haylift to help drought-stricken farmers in the South.

He is a Sunday School teacher and licensed minister. Together with his wife Gail — who is an elementary school music teacher — they help operate a performing arts church camp each summer. They are the parents of three children.

Patrick Greaser

Finalist Patrick Greaser operates Franklin Nursery, a wholesale/retail landscape nursery with 185 acres of plants, ranging from the smallest seedlings to large shade trees. He also sells mulch products and operates a hydro-seeding operation.

The nursery employs 25-30 college students during the summer.

In the 11 years that he has operated the nursery, he built a 64-foot by 104-foot shipping and receiving building, and two maintenance sheds for customizing equipment for nursery work.

They also installed a driveway, an irrigation system that supplies 1 million gallons of water every three months, and an asphalted area for mulch preparation.

He has purchased a 100-acre farm in Beaver County for growing trees, and he owns another 85-acre farm with his father.

As the nursery business grew, Greaser began a hydro-seeding operation for parks and highways. That end of the business started with one tractor and one flat-bed truck and grew to where he now requires 14 pieces of equipment for the mowing, cultivation and loading of plant and mulch products, as well as a fleet of seven multi-purpose trucks.

A Louis Diamond family

He has customized a lot of the equipment used at the nursery, and by designing his own tree planters, he increased efficiency significantly.

He went from having a crew of five men using a one-row tree planter to plant at a rate of 100 trees per day, to his current three-man crew able to plant at a rate of 250 trees per hour.

Assuming that the rate of 100 trees per day is based on an 8-hour day, he went from 12.5 trees per hour to 250. In terms of a day's work, that is 100 per day to 2,000 per day.

Not only that, but with a variable-width two-row planter, he has been able to plant 1,000 trees per hour with a five-man crew.

Greaser attended the PFB Young Farmers and Ranchers Leadership Conference earlier this year and spoke about his experiences there at a county farm bureau meeting.

He is also involved in community events. He heldped install a football field and last year donated trees for a local football team.

He also participates in the township's community days event and has donated trees and shrubs for the township park.

40 cows and farms 245 acres.

Operating with the goal of getting the highest possible output from each cow, since taking over the farm he has increased production from 21,600 pounds of milk per cow per year, to 25,500 pounds per cow, with 3.7 percent butterfat and 3.4 percent protein.

He also does embryo transfer work on his Bonzo One-O-One Farm, and has had one bull accepted for artificial insemination work, and one contracted.

The recipient of the Holstein Association ,USA Progressive Breeder and Progressive Genetics awards, he also received the herd management award from the Pa. Dairy Herd Improvement Association. Three of his cows are listed among the top 5,000 dairy cows in the nation. (There are almost 650,000 cows just in Pennsylvania.)

He has had the highest producing dairy herd (on a rolling herd basis) in the county for several years, and the dairy to which he markets his milk — Taylor Dairy — has named him a quality milk producer.

His farm is also a Dairy of Distinction, a recognition by a statewide farm beautification program.

Other production achievements include being second in the state in the annual Five-Acre Corn Club competition.

Some improvements made to the farm include a Virginia-style heifer barn, a 40-foot by 45-foot machinery/commodity barn, a new forage harvester with a metal detector, self-unloading wagons, a center-drive silo unloader with remote control, new split-rail fencing around the farm, and a flex-auger feeding system.

He has attended PFB public speaking training and the Young Farmers and Ranchers leadership conference. He also has assisted with membership drives and is helping to start a Farm Bureau advisory council.

He is president of the Beaver County Dairy Herd Improvement Association, as well as the Beaver/Lawrence Holstein Club.

In other activities, he and his wife are currently serving as chairpersons of the Special Activities Committee for the 1998 Pennsylvania Holstein Association Convention (Feb. 25-27 in Greensburg).

They also serve as hosts for tours by school and church groups, and they have allowed their farm to be used in a Farm Bureau tour for legislators.

Farm Bureau Prepares For Convention

CAMPHILL (Cumberland Co.) — The Pennsylvania Farm Bureau has made plans and members are gearing up for its 47th annual meeting to be held Nov. 17-19 at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center.

The purpose of the annual meeting, of course is to attend to business — deciding policy.

And in that matter, the PFB expects its 171-member body of delegates to discuss and vote upon about 120 policy recommendations. Last week the PFB State Policy Development Committee met for two days to prepare those policy recommendations.

The PFB's 54 county bureaus submitted 375 policy suggestions for review by the committee, which condenses them from similar intent into concise, specificly worded policies that can be addressed by the delegates.

Farm Bureau Prepares For Convention

Policies decided then become state policy and are forwarded to the American Farm Bureau for consideration and possible consolidation into national policy.

To help delegates and members better understand the issues which suggested policies are to address, a number of sessions and workshops are scheduled.

In the spring, the PFB surveyed members directly to find concerns, which could be for policy, or just for more information.

Six topics were discovered, according to Janet Carson, a spokesperson for the PFB. The six issues were dairy concerns, electric deregulation, estate planning, handling farm emergencies, farm health issues, and effective use of computers on the farm.

Carson said that with those issues in mind, a number of expert speakers are scheduled to address those issues.

She said that starting 9:30 a.m., Monday, Nov. 17, Dr. Robert Yonkers, a Penn State Extension agricultural economist, and David Walker, the assistant market administrator for the Middle Atlantic federal milk marketing order, are to discuss some of the changes coming to the dairy industry, and what kind of transitions are anticipated.

Monday afternoon, from 2 p.m. to 3:15 p.m., Thomas Walker, marketing manager of the New York Coffee, Sugar and Cocoa Exchange Inc. is to discuss management of milk price risk using futures and options.

(The N.Y. CSC Exchange recently changed is options strike price fees to reflect 25-cent intervals, rather than having some leaps of 50-cents or more, to make the futures options tool more usable for hedging.)

At the same time, from 2 p.m. to 3:15 p.m., a program is scheduled to address computer uses.

From 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m., an educational program for members is to deal with the management of medication.

At the same time, a program is to be held to deal with electric deregulation. Speakers are to be Dennis Buffington, a Penn State professor of agricultural and biological engineering; Eric Levis, legislative representative for the Pennsylvania Rural Electric Association; and John F. Sipics, vice president of retail energy supply for Pa. Power & Light Co.

Also at the same time, the PFB Marketing Co-op annual meeting is to be held.

Among other programs on Monday are the opening luncheon, from 11:45 a.m.-1:45 p.m., with state Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes Jr. slated to speak; and a Young Farmer and Rancher business meeting.

Also on Monday, the PFB board of directors (directors actually start meeting Sunday evening) is to hold a meeting; and then later in the day the delegates are to hold a voting session from 2 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

On Tuesday, a breakfast, followed by district caucuses, and the opening of the registration desk and exhibit area, starts off the day.

An estate planning program is to run from 8:30-10 a.m. with Bob Grove, of Bob Grove Insurance Agency, and of the Farm Bureau's Nationwide Insurance Enterprises, to speak.

Carson said the program is to deal with what actions and considerations can be done prior to actually deciding who or what is to be the beneficiary of any remaining assets after death.

From 10:30-11:45 a.m., Gregory Jelliff, with the emergency department at Robert Packer Hospital is to be the speaker for a program on emergency responses to accidents on the farm.

The schedule is full of other activities and events, some for specific members, others for general membership.

From noon-1:30 p.m., Tuesday, the annual President's Luncheon is scheduled to be held. In addition to words from PFB President Guy F. Donaldson, there is to be the presentation of the PFB Young Farmer and Rancher awards.

From 1:45-3 p.m. Jane Branstetter is to conduct a workshop on men-women relationships, following a theme of a more recently popular and heavily marketed program that presents the sexes as being more different than what popular culture has attempted to make people believe. The foundation of the program is that men are different than women, in thinking and actions, and that if those differences are understood then they can better understand each other and have more realistic expectations, and ultimately better and longer relationships.

Meanwhile, delegates are to be holding another voting session.

Health issues are to be considered again from 3:15-4:30 p.m., with Dr. Joanna Cain, Penn State Geisinger Health System director of the division of Obstetrics and Gynecology, to be speaker.

A member reception from 5:30-6:30 p.m. Tuesday is to be followed the annual member recognition banquet, with humorist David Okerlund as the main speaker. Awards to be presented include the Pennsylvania Friends of Agriculture award, PFB's distinguished service to agriculture award, All-Star recognition, and the Young Farmer and Rancher Discussion Meet Award.

Entertainment during the recption and banquet is to be Howard Jung on the piano.

A guest-member reception follows.

On Wednesday, a farmer breakfast starts the day from 7-7:45 a.m. with state Rep. Raymond Bunt Jr., chairman of the state House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, set to be the speaker.

The delegates are to conduct a final voting session from 8-11:30 a.m.

The PFB Women's Committee is to meet from 8-9:15 a.m., while food safety considerations are to be presented in a program from 9:30-10:45 a.m., with Christian Herr, state deputy secretary of agriculture for regulatory program, to be the speaker.

The PFB annual business meeting is to be held from 11:30 a.m. until noon, followed by a meeting of the PFB board of directors.

Lebanon Holstein Club Holds Awards Banquet

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

ONO (Lebanon Co.) — Lebanon County Holstein Club held it annual banquet Oct. 30 at the Ono Fire Hall, in Ono, recognizing member and junior member achievements.

Kirby Horst of Newmanstown presided, while Jeff Hostetter, vice president, did introductions and presented the youth awards. Hostetter is also chairman of the club's Youth Committee.

There were 135 adults and 20 youth in attendance. Entertainment was provided by the Singing Millers.

Club state director Reid Hoover talked about state programs and deadlines for dues.

David Lentz, originally from Lebanon County, now a regional representative for Holstein USA, spoke to his past home club about changes in national programs and marketing potential. He currently resides in Perry County.

Kenneth Raney, director of the Pa. Holstein Association, also addressed the audience and talked briefly about the state programs, shows and opportunities for marketing.

Three members were elected to the board of directors — Alan Hostetter, Scott Nolt, and Jay Weaver.

In other business, Hostetter announced that former county dairy princess Alisha Myers was the recipient of the club's 1997 scholarship.

A student at Penn State studying dairy and animal science, she was unable to be present to receive the award. She received the $500 post-secondary scholarship to help continue her studies.

Though she didn't grow up on a dairy farm, she became active in dairy and the Junior Holstein Association, 4-H, FFA, and worked for Sonnylee Holsteins, and at Trout Springs Farm.

She was a member of the dairy bowl team and also served in various leadership positions.

In other recognitions, in the youth production awards, Kendra Reist had the top 2-year-old for milk production. Her Ken-Joda Peticote Ambro made 26,391 pounds of milk, and was second for fat with and second for protein.

Kendel Reist had the top 2-year-old for fat production. His Q Ken-Joda Nick Tiffany made 1,106 pounds of fat.

The top 2-year-old for protein production was Amanda Martin's Promise Lane K&B Emily, with 3.4 percent, or 819 pounds protein.

Among youth with 3-year-olds, Kendel Reist's Ken-Joda Delight Antsy was first for milk and protein with 32,009 pounds of milk. Timothy Getz had the high fat-producing Holstein, Autumn Mist Starbuck Elyse.

There were no 4-year-olds entered in the contest.

Among the 5-year-old or older Holsteins owned by Junior members, Kendra Reist's Ken-Joda Holly was first in all three catagories, with 31,932 pounds milk, 1,161 pounds of fat, and 937 pounds of protein. Todd Getz's entry was a close second in fat production with 1,160 pounds.

In other news, Jeff Hostetter said that, in youth activites, the evening before the county sale a mock auction was held on 15 head of the animals that would be later sold.

He said that each participant was "given" $2,000 to use in the mock auction and were permitted to form syndicates. He said that the youth enjoyed the educational "game" and that their average price was not too far from the prices that resulted from the next day's sale.

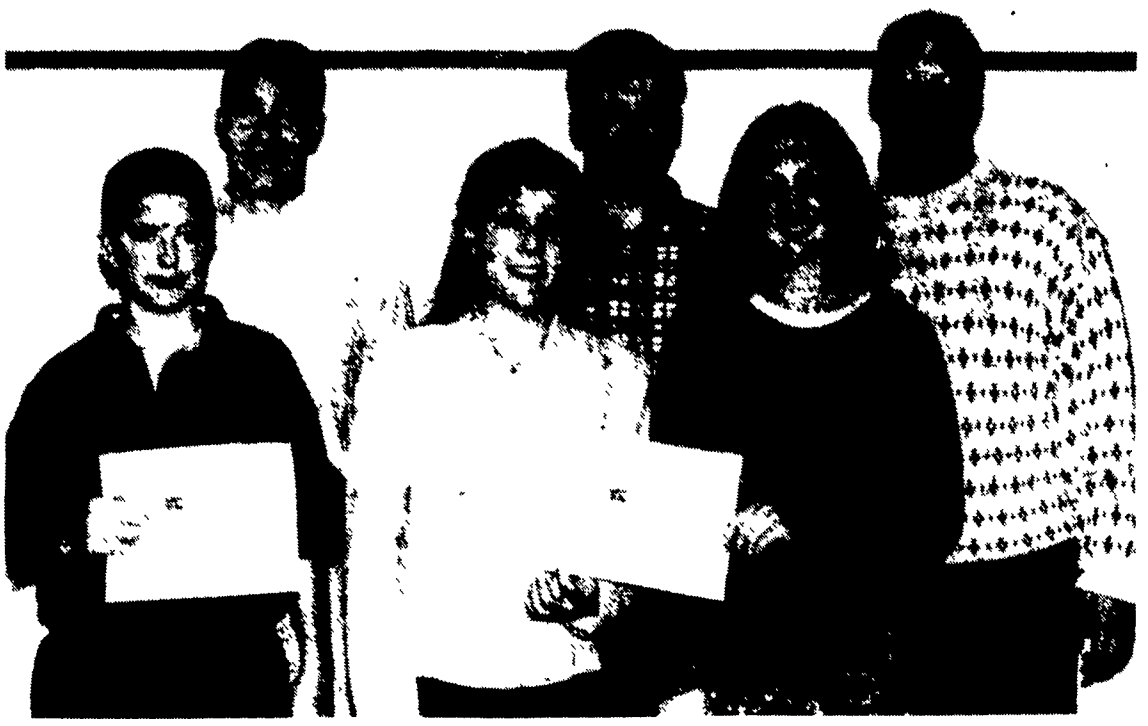
The county dairy bowl program continues to be strong. Duane Nolt, coach of the dairy bowl team, presented achievement awards to members of the two junior and two senior county teams. Nolt said that the teams competed well at states, though competition was stiff.

The teams began practices Oct. 27, and are looking for those interested to join. Interested youth or their parents should call Nolt or Hostetter.

According to Nolt, Hannah Bomgardner was named outstanding first year dairy bowl member, while Heather Oberholtzer was named outstanding members overall.

In adult member awards, Lebanon County recognizes herd BAA achievements. The contest requires a minimum of 25 cows in the herd, and they must have scored from August 1996 to September 30, 1997.

Lebanon County Junior Holstein members receive awards for high production from their registered Holsteins. From the left is Amanda Martin, Todd Getz, Timothy Getz, Chris Wagner, and Bradley Hoover.



Lebanon County dairy bowl team members receive certificates of achievement. From the left is Bradley Hoover, Justin Troutman, Andrea Bashore, Todd Getz, and Amanda Martin, and coach Duane Nolt.

First place winner was Kirby and Cheryl Horst, of Newmanstown, who have a 109.2 BAA on their 45-head registered herd.

Second place went to Scott and Karen Nolt, of South Annville Township, who served as host for the county club's annual field night.

In third was Juvindale Holsteins, owned by Juliet and Vincent Wagner, of Myerstown.

DHIA MANAGEMENT TIPS — M.U.N. Testing

Now is the time to have your herd tested for M.U.N. Crops are in the barns and silos filled, thus a good time to balance the ration with the help of your nutritionist. With low milk prices, a well balanced ration can increase milk and keep feed prices in line. The average M.U.N. in the herds we test run 14.8. Work with your feed consultant to help interpret this data.

'Passing On Farm' Topic Of Williamsport Workshop

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania is at a crossroads in agriculture that will affect future generations and the status of the commonwealth's number one industry.

Currently, 45 percent of Pennsylvania's farm operators are age 55 or older. There are two times as many operators over the age of 65 as under the age of 35.

In the next 10 years, nearly one quarter of the state's 44,800 farms will change hands. How we address this problem will affect agriculture in Pennsylvania for generations to come.

Working to assist in the successful transfer of family farms in Pennsylvania and in turn contribute to the revitalization of our rural communities, the Pennsylvania Farm Link program is sponsoring a Beginning and Retiring Farmer Workshop at Hoss's Steak House in Williamsport on Monday, Nov. 10. The regional workshop will address "Passing on the Farm" issues, including business planning, farm loan resources, marketing ideas, start-up strategies, goal setting, legal aspects of farm transfers, farm management, and communication skills. It will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Participants will be required to purchase lunch at Hoss's.

Participating agencies and individuals include Pennsylvania Farm Link, Penn State Cooperative Extension, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, Farm Credit, Farm Service Agency, and a panel of local farmers.

According to Executive Director Marion Bowlan, "In spite of the decline in family farms and the obstacles that deter all but the most devoted, many Pennsylvanians are looking for ways to enter farming." Beginning farmers are finding it increasingly difficult to acquire the capital needed to enter farming.

At the same time, Pennsylvania's current farm operators are graying. The average age of a farmer in Pennsylvania is now over 52. Many farmers reaching retirement age are having difficulty phasing out of farming while maintaining adequate resources for retirement. Farm Link is working on innovative ways for retiring farmers to gradually transfer their farms to the next generation.

Individuals who want to enter farming or farmers considering retirement are invited to attend this workshop on Monday, Nov. 10, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Farmers Meet To Develop Independent Trade

PEACH BOTTOM (Lancaster Co.) — A meeting for dairymen who are seeking to take control of their own markets was held recently in the Hoffman Building at the Solanco Fairgrounds in Quarryville, according to Allen Weicksel, of Peach Bottom.

Weicksel has been a leader among an independent group of dairy producers and farmers seeking to take control of their businesses by developing their own markets.

The marketing efforts thus far depend on investments by members of the organization. According to Weicksel, the group has thus far marketed more than $6 million worth of product in Russia, such as branded canned sweet corn produced for the market taste, and dairy product.

It is seeking to do more.

Weicksel said he has a number of "critical points and their missions" in a plan to secure markets that were discussed during the meeting.

He said that while the marketing effort has grown out of the southern Lancaster County region to include a number of others in the farmer-controlled Overseas Trade Group, there is much to be done, and much opportunity to take, instead of waiting for those without a vested interest in success to get around to deciding when and where and how international markets can be developed.

Weicksel said that the group is seeking only those farmers "who want control of their milk markets, who want to be businessmen and develop markets and accept the responsibility for their milk production."

Prior to the meeting, he said, "There's no reason to come if your not willing to accept control and responsibility for the dairy product."

Some of the discussion was to focus on strategies for developing markets.

Weicksel said it is important to note that the group of farmers with whom he is associated is not seeking government support programs, only help in establishing markets.

"The group I work with is against the floor price and want government off their back and to be totally independent."

The floor price to which he refered would be a government-decreed, across-the-board minimum price to the farmer of $14 per hundredweight of milk, that has been promoted by some groups as a way to relieve financial stresses on dairy farmers, especially family farmers who have been going out of business because prices received haven't been covering costs of production.

Some of the strategies Weicksel said were to be discussed during the meeting included setting goals and timetables.

- A farmer controlled overseas trade group is critical to the strategy. The Pa. Producers Research and Development Commission Inc. (PPRDC), is to continue that effort, with a goal of, over the next two years, to continue to develop an overseas dry whole milk market with the capability of handling 100,000 metric tons of dry whole milk by 2000.

- The creation and maintenance of a farmer financial pool is to be handled by the American Raw Milk Producers Pricing Association Inc. (ARMPPA), a group already established. It is to have the goal of, over the next four years, continuing to develop a national membership of 35,000 dairy farmers who are willing through an assessment program to develop an overseas dry whole milk market. The proposed assessment would be .0164 percent of the gross monthly milk check and would be paid into a trust fund.

- The movement of fluid milk over the next four years would be controlled by the ARMPPA. It has developed a system of moving milk from the Lancaster region east into New York. The goal is to expand that system to export fluid milk.

- A goal is to establish a dry whole milk cooperative by 1998. The ideal would be a dairy farmer cooperative with the capability to produce 1.8 billion pounds of raw whole milk for shipment overseas as dry whole milk. Discussion at the meeting was to further some of the possibilities for the cooperative, such as production contracts, location, a base price, etc.

- The finalization of the program is to occur when the two groups — PPRDC and ARMPPA — decide and announce four months prior to shut down, to allow non-participating dairy farmers to evaluate the program and determine if they want to join.

For more information, contact Weicksel at 1718 Slate Hill Rd., Peach Bottom, Pa., or call (717) 548-3559, or fax (717) 548-3642.

Maryland DHIA

The September Dairy Herd Improvement information for dairy herds from the DHI processing center in Provo, Utah. The list includes herds from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. The information is listed by herd name, county association, number of cows in the herd and the average production per cow in the herd based on Energy Corrected Milk (ECM). ECM combines milk production and components.

The ECM formula is: (7.2 x lbs. protein) + (12.95 x lbs. fat) + (.327 x lbs. milk). To be included, the herd must have 10 cows averaging 65 pounds or more of ECM per cow, per day. All herds reported are on official DHI or DHIR test. Also listed are the top ten herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys, and Jerseys, and the top seven herds for Ayrshires.

Cooperators Honored By Frederick Soil Conservation District

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

WOODSBORO, Md. — The Frederick Soil Conservation District held its annual cooperators banquet here at the Woodsboro Activities Complex. Awards were presented to three farm families following a social hour and dinner.

The cooperator of the year award is granted by the conservation district to a cooperator who has shown a continuing commitment over a period of years to conservation of their land. Generally the cooperator has installed best management practices to limit soil erosion and improve water quality.

This year Steve Cassis, Whiskey Ridge Farm, was honored as cooperator of the year. Cassis raises feeder cattle on his farm near Libertytown. He rotationally grazes about 50 head on 125 acres.

"I'm trying to plant warm season grasses to graze all year," he explained.

Cassis purchased his farm in 1988 and became a cooperator shortly thereafter. The cropland acreage on the farm had been enrolled in the CRP program by its previous owner, and is in permanent cover.

Almost ¾ of a mile of Linganore Creek borders and runs through the farm. Riparian buffers have been enhanced by fencing out the livestock. Troughs have been installed and are gravity fed by springs.

The Raymond Keilholtz Memorial award is granted each year to the cooperator who has installed the most effective variety of practices, accomplishing soil conservation and improving water quality within a two-year time period.

Winners of this year's Raymond Keilholta Memorial Award are James and Louise Stup and family, Teabow Inc. The Stups purchased their original home farm near Walkersville in 1965 and since that time have added three more farms to their dairy operation. Jame Stup became a district cooperator in 1981. In 1995 Stup retired, but his wife Louise still keeps the books for the 400-cow dairy.

Son James is farm manager, and his wife Terrie manages the calves. Daughter Melissa Jarvis manages the dairy, and her husband Larry Jarvis Jr., is feed and breeding manager.

Over the years Teabow, Inc. has established many conservation practices, including conservation tillage and crop rotation, grassed waterways, troughs, diversions, and an animal waste storage structure. They have implemented a nutrient management plan, fenced out a stream that runs through the farm, installed stream crossings to allow access to all pastures, and utilized fall cover crops.

The Take Pride In Frederick County Award goes to a farm that has well-executed best management practices installed with proper maintenance. The conservation district is interested in overall appearance of the farm and the cooperator's promotion of water quality practices.

This year the Take Pride In Frederick County Award went to Larry and Judy Riggs, Leighcastle Holsteins. The Riggs purchased a farm in Union Bridge in 1987 and have expanded their operation to include 425 acres. They have grown the milking herd from 50 cows to 130, and raise 100 replacement heifers.

Judy is responsible for calf care. Franklin Burrier, from whom the Riggs purchased the original farm, is employed on the farm and is responsible for the crops.

Ted Wolfe also works for Leighcastle with their fertilizer program. The Riggs have four children: Christina Crum, Andy Riggs, Carolyn Riggs, and Chad Hylan.

Leighcastle has installed a spring development and trough, 700 feet of subsurface drainage, an ag waste storage structure, 2,500 feet of fencing, and conservation tillage and cropping systems. In 1993 they started using field strips to protect the soil from erosion.

The Take Pride In Frederick County Award was presented by Dwight Dotterer, supervisor of the Frederick County Soil Conservation District, to Larry and Judy Riggs, Leighcastle Holsteins. From the left are Dwight Dotterer, Judy and Larry Riggs, and Jesse Burall, chairman of the Frederick Soil Conservation District.

C. Ellis Hood, left, treasurer of the Frederick Soil Conservation District board, presented the Cooperator of the Year Award to Steve Cassis of Libertytown. On the right is Jesse Burall, chairman of the Frederick Soil Conservation district board.

Animal Housing Expo Nov. 18-19

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Northeast farmers can learn more about how to remodel and expand their livestock, dairy, and poultry facilities at the sixth annual Animal Housing Expo, Nov. 18-19 here at the Lebanon Fairgrounds.

The Expo is sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension and various agribusinesses. Hours are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Admission is free.

Designing and constructing animal housing facilities is a major financial commitment. It is something that may farmers will do only once or twice in their farming career. Thus, it should be done right the first time.

The building and remodeling decisions farmers make today will have a significant impact on how competitive their business will be in the years to come. It will affect the health and productivity of their herd or flock, worker output, public relations, cash flow, and farm profits.

Farmers should take time to look at a lot of different facilities and talk to a lot of people before they make major remodeling and expansion decisions. The Animal Housing Expo helps farmers in the Northeast accomplish this by providing them an opportunity to:

- Visit with approximately 40 different commercial exhibitors who can supply the products and services they might need.
- Hear presentations by nationally-known and local experts and producers.
- Observe a variety of educational demonstrations and exhibits.
- Share ideas with other farmers in attendance.

This year's program features swine topics Nov. 18 and dairy topics Nov. 18-19.

Primary speakers include John W. Ferry, a veterinarian and financial consultant from Belleville, N.Y. and Larry Jacobsen, agricultural engineer from the University of Minnesota. Panels of dairy producers will share their remodeling and expansion experiences.

John Ferry's presentations on Nov. 18 will focus on "Expansion Preparations" and "Planning the Expansion Project and Working the Plan." On Nov. 19 he will focus on "Managing the New Facility" and "Getting the Best Performance Out of Your Two-Legged and Four-Legged Employees."

Larry 'Jacobsen's presentation will focus on "Wean-to-Finish Production." John Chapman of White Oak Mills will talk about "Three Site Swine Production" and "Finishing Swine on Your Dairy Farm." D.L. George from Hatfield Quality Meats will explain "The Autofom Carcass Payment Program," and a panel of pork producers will share their thoughts and experiences.

Producers who want to expand or remodel their facilities and become more efficient, and agribusiness people who are interested in animal housing facilities and equipment should reserve the dates of Nov. 18-19 and make plans to attend.

For more information about the Expo and about exhibit details, contact Expo Chairman Dan McFarland, Penn State Cooperative Extension, York, (717) 840-7408.

Lebanon County Honors Conservation Efforts

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon County Conservation District honored several members of its community Wednesday during its annual conservation achievement recognition ceremonies at the Lebanon Quality Inn.

The Lebanon Conservation District annually recognizes conservation efforts by community people and businesses.

Charles Wertz, district manager, presided at the meeting. The annual planning meeting preceded the awards luncheon and the awards ceremony. A board meeting followed.

District staff members include Leigh Beamesderfer, forester/naturalist; Sherry Carlin, erosion and sedimentation control specialist; Doug Wolfgang, agricultural resource coordinator; Ruth Sheetz, administrative assistant; and Linda Shultz, secretary.

The district operations are overseen by a board of directors comprised of rural and urban people, with agriculture well represented. The board includes farmers, a county commissioner, members of the community active on boards of related agencies and organizations, and individuals personally and/or professionally concerned with natural resources.

The district chairman is Calvin Miller of Lickdale, a dairy farmer and one of the first to receive individual provisional certification for nutrient management planning under the state's new Nurtient Management Act program. His farm has a voluntary plan.

Edward Keener of Cornwall is vice chairman. Keener is involved with oversight of the Lebanon City water and sewer department, one of the largest watershed owners in the county, as well as providing waste-water treatment for the city and surrounding municipalities.

Dale Maulfair of Jonestown is a dairy farmer with registered Ayrshires who serves as treasurer.

The board is also comprised of two "urban" directors, George Wolff of Myerstown, and Betty Conner of Lebanon. There are also three "rural" directors, Connie Hoffer of South Annville, Donald Bollinger of Kleinfeltersville, and George Ungemach of the Campbelltown area.

Also serving on the board is county Commissioner JoEllen Litz.

Special Recognition Conservation Award

Litz was the recipient of the district's Special Recongition Award for Conservation.

According to Wertz, Litz also serves on the Lebanon Area Chamber of Commerce, the Lebanon Business and Professional Women's Club, the Lebanon Women's Club, runs her own business, was one of the first members of the county agricultural land preservation board before she was a county commissioner, and was one of the first members of a citizens group concerned with water quality of the Swatara Creek which has become the Swatara Watershed Association — for which she did the fund raising necessary for the watershed association to be able to qualify for a grant, and was instrumental in coordinating the various municipalities in the watershed to cooperate with the project.

She also helps out with various district programs and projects involving youth, and Wertz showed several slides of Litz involved in such activities.

Clean Water Farm Award

The Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Farm Award was presented to David and Christine Williams of Jonestown. The couple and their dairy farm have been featured several times in Lancaster Farming for such things as converting marginal and wet bottom land from row crop fields into hay and pasture fields, and for converting from a confinement and prepared feeds focused dairying operation to incoroporating intensive grazing.

From the left, recipients of awards from the Lebanon County Conservation District are David Williams, Althea Hemperly, Marie Levitz, JoEllen Litz, and James Logan.

The 142-acres farm has been used for tours demonstrating conservation practices and concerns. It has also been used as a meeting site for the Swatara Watershed Association, and to demonstrate the efforts and activities of county farmers to protect the quality of water.

According to Wertz, the couple signed up as cooperators with the conservation district in 1991 and then as a Chesapeake Bay Cooperator in 1995.

Wertz noted that when the Williamses signed on as cooperators with the Chesapeake Bay Program they agreed to implement a number of "best management practices" (BMPs) on their farm with 10 years time allowed to have all installed and implemented.

The Williamses finished their obligations within two years. They received a plaque, as well as a certificate of appreciation from state Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes Jr.

Conservationist of Year

Marie Levitz, of Grantville, benefactor of the H.M. Levitz Memorial Park, located along Rt. 443 in the Grantville area, was presented with the district's Conservationist of the Year award.

Levitz, a medical secretary for 40 years who volunteers to help a number of community service organizations and efforts, donated a 105-acre tract of land which became the H.M. Levitz Memorial Park.

The park is the site of an annual apple cider festival and has various nature programs for the public. Through continued support from Levitz, a facility was constructed to house a park management and to make improvements, as well as to provide operational and maintenance funds.

Wertz said that the park has continued to operate with private funds and donations for years and has been self-sustaining.

According to Wertz, the park provides nature trails, and has used conservation devices to present erosion and sedimentation in the stream that flows through it.

Conservation Educator Of The Year

The Conservation District also recognizes a Conservation Educator of the Year. This year the award went to James Logan, a biology teacher at Northern Lebanon School District.

Wertz said the qualifications for the award are for an educator who teaches in public, private or parochial schools or colleges in the community, who has demonstrated a commitment to environmental education, and who has achieved a significant level of impact and outreach, used resources and other agencies in providing educational opportunities, and who has committed time and energy in actively educating about the environment.

According to Wertz, Logan has promoted and achieved environmental awareness and appreciation in youth. As a biology teacher and advisor to the school Ecology Club, he works with environmental biology and environmental chemistry students.

He has developed a program where he takes youth on annual field trips to Lews, Delaware, for ocean study, and also has students do environmental class projects.

Landowner Of The Year

The Lebanon Conservation District also recognizes outstanding conservation efforts by landowners.

This year's award recipient is the Althea Hemperly family, for the work they did on their North Annville Township farm.

Wertz said the award is made to "... a landowner who made a noteworthy contribution."

With the use of slide projection of before and after photographs of the farm, Wertz explained that the family's 122-acre farm has a lot of steep sloping, shallow-soiled hills, and erosion has been a historic

Restructured Holstein Herdbook

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Alan Koepke can remember a time when he had a high cull rate, low merchandising figures and low classification scores on his dairy farm. But a new era, since 1989, has brought lower culling, increased income, and improved type traits.

The difference, he said he believes, comes from Officially Identified Holsteins and programs offered by the Holstein Association.

With the Holstein Association's newly structured herdbook, approved by delegates at their annual meeting in June, many commercial dairy producers will be able to see the same returns on investment that Keopke has. That's because all Holsteins are now eligible to be registered in the herdbook. USDA research in 1996 showed that Registered Holsteins return $242 more during their lifetime than unidentified Holsteins, based on increased milk production and longer herd life.

Koepke said he estimates that with classification and identification, he's invested $3,500. Returns, however, have been approximately $35,000. "That's why we bother with the Registered Holsteins," he said, "and we're not talking about some elite ones coming through the system. Any commercial person that wants to be in the business for several years can benefit from the Holstein Association's programs."

"In the first era, we were shipping 28 percent to the stockyard, and breeding sales only made up 9 percent of income," the Oconomowoc, Wis., producer said. "And those basically came off the bottom of the herd." The cull rate is now down to 21 percent. Sales of breeding stock have increased to 24 percent. And the income over the last few years has increased dramatically. The milking herd has remained at 240 cows since 1989.

Identification was not a high priority when Alan started farming in 1963. "We were in the business of selling milk," he said. "But then identification became a priority — we had always used DHI and when the Identified Holstein Female (IHF) program became available from the Holstein Association we started using that too."

Having IHFs and Qualified Holsteins paid off, he said. "We now get a couple hundred dollars more than we were originally," he said. "It's well above feed costs and another way to merchandise genetics. It all adds up."

Each animal in the Holstein Association's newly restructured herdbook will have calculated, recorded and reported a percentage "Registered Holstein Ancestry" or "RHA." This percentage will be calculated by averaging the percent RHA of the parents and then rounding down to the nearest whole number.

Regular registration fees are the same as for the previous Registered and Qualified programs. These are based on the animal's age and membership status of the applicant. Animals whose ancestors are currently recorded in the herdbook are subject to these fees.

As an incentive for those interested in registering their grade Holsteins, there is a special start-up pricing program. With start-up pricing, a producer can submit applications on one or several generations for a fee of $6 each.

For example, a producer could apply to register a calf, her dam and grandam. These animals, if all are out of 100 percent RHA sires, would be 87 percent RHA, 75 percent RHA and 50 percent RHA respectively. The calf, at 87 percent RHA, would be eligible for all Holstein Association programs.

Koepke has sold both Registered and Qualified bulls to local producers and to bull sales. Buyers want to know they are buying quality animals and are interested in the pedigree as well, he added.

"I think of Official Identification as another part of enterprising," he said. "It takes more time to market, communicate, go to meetings, but it's a long-term investment. After all, it take two to three generations, to see improvement."

For more information about the Holstein Association's herdbook, call the Member Services Unit at 1-800-952-5200.

New Holland Sales Stables Holds Dairy Show, Sale

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Stonehurst Farm of Strasburg last week showed the grand champion of the annual New Holland Sales Stables Dairy Show and Sale.

The annual show of 2-year-old and older dairy cattle was judged by Norman Hill of Woodbine Maryland, and has been a long-time event of the sales stables.

After the show, the animals are then sold at auction. The sale totalled $51,275 on 35 animals. Excluding the two champions, it averaged $1,356.82 on 33 animals.

Larry Charles purchased the champion cow for $3,800.

James Hostetter of Annville showed the reserve grand champion, a 3-year-old fresh cow, which was purchased $2,700 by the Peila Brothers.

The show offers eight catagories — mixed breed dry cow and mixed breed fresh cow; 2-year-old dry Holstein, 2-year-old fresh Holstein, 3-year-old dry, 3-year-old fresh, and mature dry and mature fresh.

While the grand and reserve grand champions respectively brought the two highest prices, Larry Charles also purchased the first place 2-year-old dry cow for $2,600, and the third place dry 2-year-old for $2,000. Julia Stover purchased the second-place dry 3-year-old from Fred Potteiger for $2,000.

agents without ever having been one and for promoting the family unit to make and keep the home the strength of our nation.

According to Trudy Dougherty, vice president, the state honorary award is not given annually but only occasionally to a person who works toward the same ideals as the extension family living agents.

Lou Ann was cited for her feature stories on families, food and nutrition articles, and reporting on extension family living programs.

Lou Ann has been a staff writer for Lancaster Farming for 10 years. She and her husband Parke reside in Lititz and have four married children and four grandchildren.

Additional coverage of the awards presented to agents at the Pennsylvania Extension Association of Family and Consumer Sciences and the Pennsylvania Association of County Agricultural Agents will be in next week's issue.

Conservation Efforts

problem with the property.

Nine years ago, the family offered and had accepted into the USDA Conservation Reserve Program 73 acres of their farm.

The bare-earth, steep fields were transformed through the planting of 38,000 tree seedlings on 56 acres; the planting of wildlife cover plants on other acres; some fields of native grasses; seven wildlife food plots (one acre planted for birds with sunflowers, one with buckwheat, others with sorghum and millet.

Fruit-and food-bearing trees, shrubs and bushes have also been planted, and family members said that the farm has become a dream come true.

For the first time in years, they are occasionally waking to the sound of a ringnecked pheasant cackling, though they noted that wild reproduction doesn't seem to have taken hold, blaming it on predation by birds and some furbearers, not really certain why the birds they have stocked over the years (1,000 over eight years) seem to disappear from one year to the next.

Slide photographs taken by the family and discussed by family members noted the work that initially went in to the plantings and the cultivation of the plants (they did spray to protect the tree seedlings until they reached a size where they could compete more easily with other plants).

The growth of the different species — larch, some hardwoods, some pines, etc. — was also demonstrated with the photographs. While the family has one year to go under its current CRP contract, Althea has already submitted an application to be considered for another 10 years under the current round of the revised CRP program.

Wertz said that prior to placing the land into the USDA CRP, the erosion rate of the soil was not only considered highly erodible, but was considered three times more erodible than what would be profitable to farm.

Though the profitability of the land can no longer be compared in terms of tradition crops, the family expressed the sentiment that it has become more valuable than it ever was, or could be in any other form.

For more information on the Lebanon Conservation District or its programs, call Wertz at (717) 272-3377.

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Co. Correspondent

HUNTSDALE (Cumberland Co.) — Jennifer Beck of Carlisle and Mark Myers of Boiling Springs were the top winners during the recent Cumberland County 4-H Achievement Banquet.

The event, held at the Penn Twp. Fire Hall, saw Beck named Outstanding 4-H Girl. Myers was applauded as Outstanding 4-H Boy.

Beck has been involved in 4-H for eight years. She is part of the horse drill team, the horse judging team, and the food and nutrition team and has attended county, state, and national events.

Myers has been involved in 4-H for 10 years. The fact that he has Down's syndrome hasn't slowed him down a bit. He is a member of the Conodoguinet Sheep Club, where he is social chairman and one of the news reporters.

The Outstanding Junior 4-H'er Award went to Matthew Creek of Shippensburg. Creek is a five-year 4-H member and belongs to the local livestock, goat, swine, and conservation clubs.

Matthew's brother John, was the winner of one of the two I Dare You awards presented at the banquet. The other award went to Kandace Baum of Mechanicsburg.

Berks Farm-City Exchange Proves 'Hands-On' Attitude Extends Beyond High School

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

WYOMISSING (Berks Co.) — Rex Peters of Peters Brothers Meat Market, Lenhartsville, told almost 400 who attended the 14th Annual Berks County Farm-City Banquet Thursday evening that he was a "hands-on" fellow and liked the work of the Berks Vo-Tech Center.

An exchangee with Dr. K. Robert Hohl, executive director of the Berks County Intermediate Unit (BCIU), Peters applies that philosophy everywhere. Even to BCIU visitors.

Hohl found out quickly enough when, during one day every year, when two people from different Berks County industries trade places with ag producers, that Peters means what he says.

Hohl told those who attended the banquet at the Sheraton Berkshire Hotel on Thursday night that, one September morning, after "getting up with the chickens" early to tour the meat market, "we made some sausage."

Hohl was taking time loading the long lengths of sausage, one at a time, onto a holding rack, displayed on a series of slides at the farm city banquet. In fact, Peters allowed Hohl plenty of time to apply the hands-on method of learning what another producer has to do to make a living.

Hohl admitted to being a "city slicker," but took great pride and pleasure learning about the highly sophisticated equipment used at the Peters Brothers operation.

The meat market includes wholesaling and retailing of meats and processed meat products, custom slaughtering, cutting, wrapping, and freezing of beef, pork, lamb, and veal, curing and smoked meat products, and custom meat processing.

Hohl explained, as part of the exchange day, how the company makes scrapple and about the smokehouse operation (two large smokehouses cost $100,000 each). "If you think being in agribusiness is cheap these days, you are mistaken," he said.

Hohl explained the freezer meats operation, including specialty products for customers. Right now the market and plant are actively preparing popular specialty meats for the holidays.

Peters had a chance to see what it was like to run a large intermediate unit. He told those at the banquet he was surprised at the number of programs the BCIU supports, which includes 90 through the unit.

While Peters had a chance to sit down at a board meeting, he also toured various BCIU schools, including the Alsaca School for mentally delinquent children.

Peters was particularly impressed with the work of the Berks Vo-Tech Center, which Hohl is superintendent of.

"I thought that was really neat," said Peters. He was impressed at how the Center's students actually constructed houses, basement to finished cabinets, and sold the homes. He recently learned that the Center purchased land for development of additional houses, of which the students are involved in from start to finish.

Peters was also impressed by the technology being used to ensure that all children in the area receive a decent education.

Another exchangee program involved Charles (Chuck) Gallagher, managing editor of the Reading Eagle, and Richard Hawk, president of Farr's Nursery and Landscape Company.

Gallagher, who joined the Reading Eagle Newspaper in 1968 as police reporter and was named managing editor in 1990, said he grew up in north Philadelphia. "We thought the green plants were those things growing up out of the cracks of sidewalks," Gallagher said.

But he learned, since coming to Berks County, about how important agriculture is.

On his day at Farr's Nursery and Landscape Company, he learned how seedlings are developed. He learned that Farr's ships plants from Michigan to Vermont on the 32-employee operation. He learned how to operate a hydraulic spade.

As part of the exchange program, Hawk, of Farr's, learned what it was like to be a managing editor of large city daily newspaper. He found out that a great deal of the day is used by the managing editor to handle calls from subscribers about coverage of stories, about handling complaints, about going through the day-by-day realities of managing news. He learned that the "newspapers are a business and not a public utility, and the newspaper has to print the news," Hawk said.

Hawk recounted sitting in on a discussion with the editors about running a photo of an accident victim, and talk about how the photo could potentially hurt the family members. The newspaper decided not to run the photo.

"A lot of thought, a lot of compassion goes into what is placed in the newspaper," said Hawk.

Also, Hawk sat in on a taping on WFMZ-TV 69, the television station that carries news about what the paper will cover.

"It was a fascinating experience," Hawk said.

Gallagher said, "This county is special, is precious. We need to have healthy businesses like Farr's."

Also at the banquet, various businesses and individuals were honored by the Berks County Farm-City Council. William Hughes, vice president, agrifinance, CoreStates Bank, presented the 1997 Public Relations in Agriculture Individual Award to Herbert Wetzel, who spent 32 years with the Berks extension and as county extension director for 10 years.

Hughes said that, in Wetzel's many years as a county extension agent, Wetzel provided strong leadership efforts in production and marketing of mushrooms, tree fruits, and Christmas trees in Berks County and southeast Pennsylvania.

Some of Wetzel's other activities include coordination of Penn State mushroom research in southeast Pennsylvania, tree program coordinator, adviser to the county fruit growers, and serving on various ag committees. He also was instrumental in developing the use of spent compost as a soil amendment for crops and he helped originate research in the use of intensive grazing on dairy farms.

Hughes presented the 1997 Public Relations in Agricultural Award to Peters Brothers Meats, Inc. The company began in 1940 by two brothers, William and George Peters. Over the years they added a trucking business. In 1977, present owners Donald (George's son) and wife Jerilyn purchased the meat market business.

Peter Brothers Meats has 16 employees. Today, sons Tim and Rex manage the business. They were instrumental in opening their doors for the 21st time on the Berks County farm tours, purchased many 4-H and FFA animals at livestock sales, allowed youth to practice meats judging in their facilities, and other activities.

John Hvizda, owner of A & J Insurance, Hamburg, presented the Tressie E. Caton Memorial Woman in Agriculture Award to Janet Schlegel. Born and raised on a farm in Fleetwood, said Hvizda, Schlegel, wife of a dairy farmer, has been involved in many farm and service organizations. Her work includes state director of Society of Farm Women, president of Berks Society of Farm Women, and member of Group 6 in Berks County. She also served as leader of the Salem Knick Knacks 4-H Club, held many offices in the Fleetwood Grange, and memberships in the Agribusiness Council and the Farm-City Council.

Schlegel is also a full-time housewife and dairy farmer. She is in charge of young stock and the dairy farm business records on the farm, R-Lost Creek Dairy, which as 60 cows and 160 acres. She and husband Richard have two children, Heidi and Kevin, and two grandchildren.

Hvizda also noted that the Berks County Farm-City Council of the Chamber of Commerce recently donated more than $1,000 to the Berks County Public Libraries to purchase books.

PFB: Farmers Need to Attend These Meetings

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (PFB) has announced that it wants to alert farmers to an important series of public meetings now underway on future environmental policy Pennsylvania.

In June 1997, Gov. Tom Ridge established the 21st Century Environment Commission. It is the commission's job to recommend methods and policies to improve the environmental qualities of the commonwealth and measure the results, while allowing enhanced economic and social progress.

In other words, the commission is to identify the environmental priorities for the next century and how to solve them.

"Farmers need to be involved in these discussions," said Guy Donaldson, president of PFB. "These meetings will set the stage for important decisions that could affect agriculture in the next century. I urge all concerned farmers to attend the public meeting in their area."

Some meetings of the 21st Century Environment Commission have already been held. Upcoming sessions are scheduled as follows:

Nov. 12 — 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Dubois Holiday Inn, Route 219 and I-80, Dubois.

Nov. 13 — 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Inn at Franklin, 1411 Liberty Street, Franklin (Venango County).

Nov. 20 — 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the York Budget Inn, 1650 Toronita Street, York.

Dec. 4 — 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the National Institute for Environmental Renewal, 1300 Old Plank Road, Mayfield (Scranton area).

Dec. 12 — 9 a.m. to 12 noon at the Days Inn and Conference Center, 1151 Bulldog Drive, Allentown.

Dec. 16 — 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Upper Merion Township Building, 175 West Valley Forge Road, King of Prussia (Montgomery County).

Dec. 16 - 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the PA Dept. of Environmental Protection, Lee Park — Suite 6010, 555 North Lane, Conshohocken.

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau is a non-governmental, voluntary farm organization which represents 25,207 farm and rural families. It provides members with information, business services and a voice in public affairs.

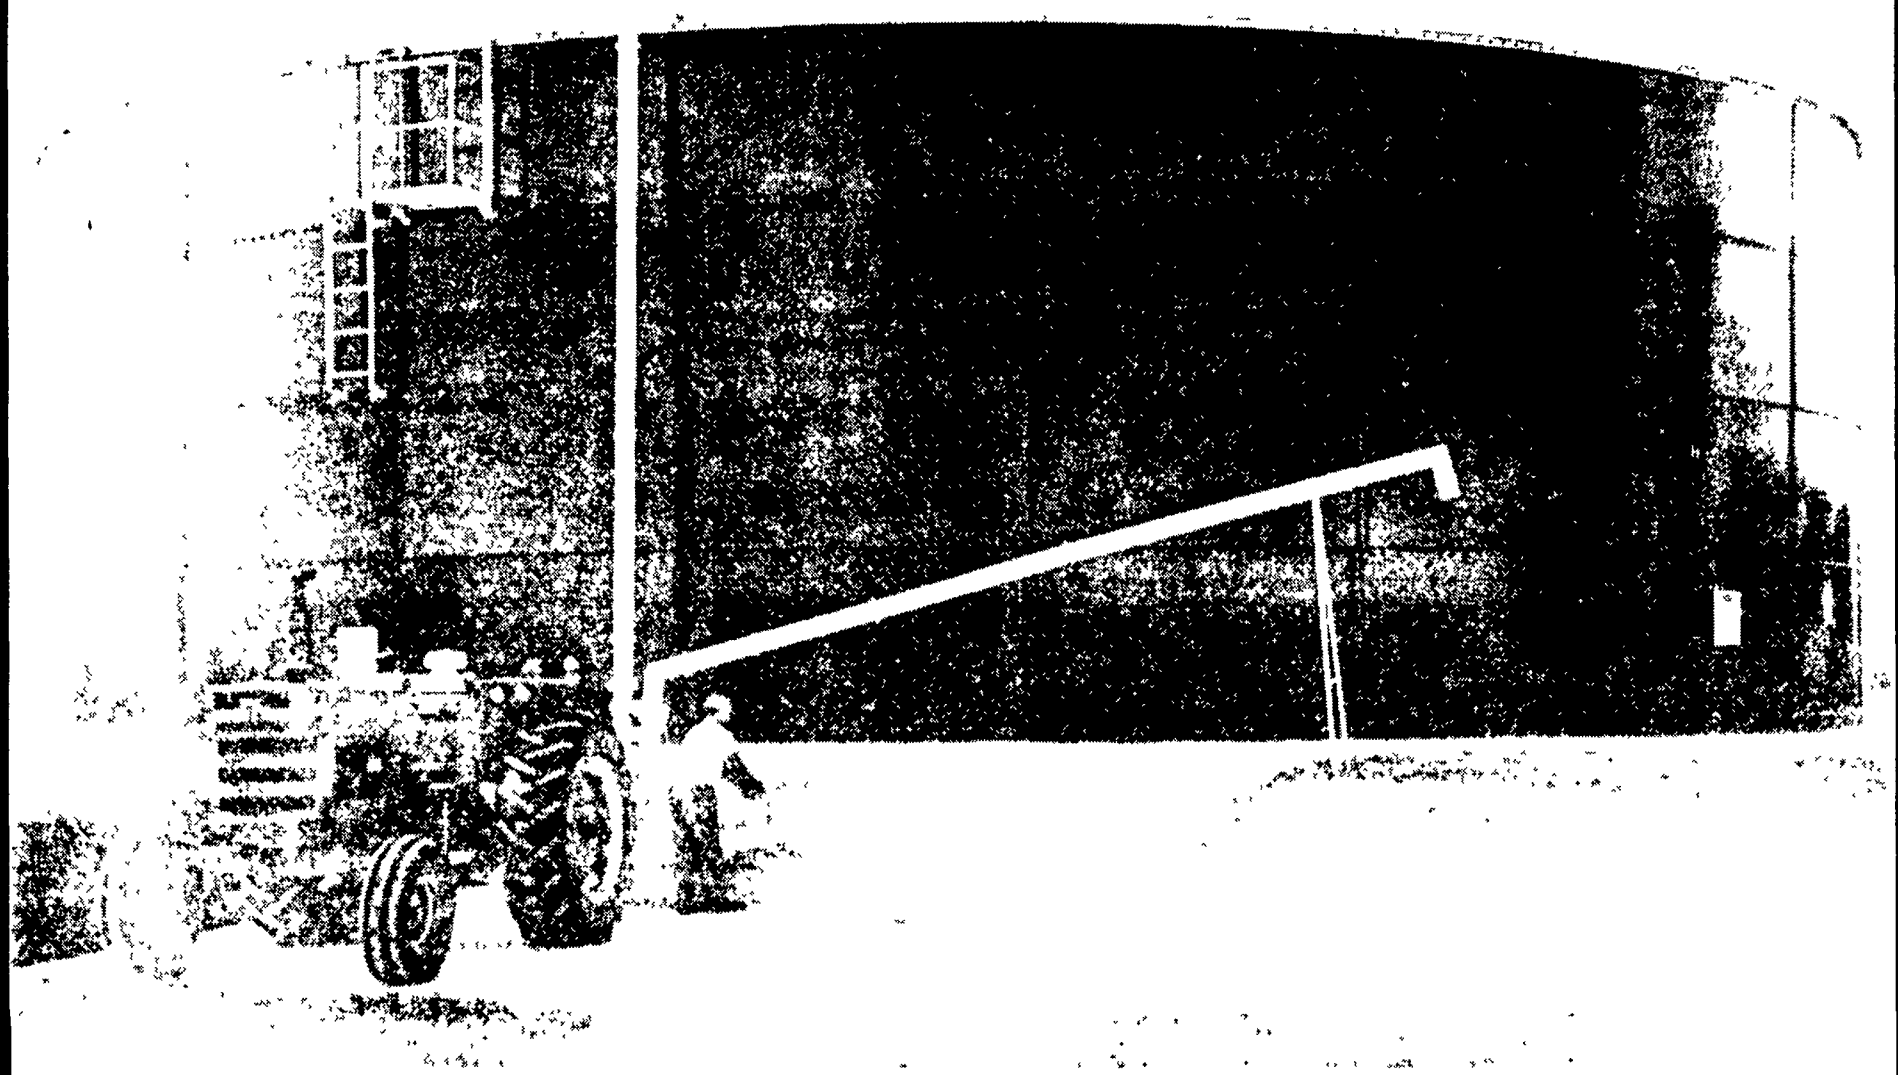
ODOR MANAGEMENT



THE SLURRYSTORE® SYSTEM

Livestock operators of all sizes have at least one common problem - dealing with the odor caused by stored animal waste. One of the latest attempts to manage odors of stored livestock manure is the use of natural biological covers. Several full-scale demonstrations have shown that blankets of biological material floating on top of manure can noticeably help manage the escape of odorous gases that are produced within liquid manure storage areas.

If you're considering manure storage for your livestock operation and are concerned about odor, call Penn Jersey's main office (717-354-4051) or mail the coupon at right to receive the latest university research on biocovers, part of A.O. Smith Engineered Storage Products' ongoing effort to help livestock producers manage their operations.

Lancaster Farm Women Exemplify Motto 'For Happiness'

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — An 80th birthday calls for a lot celebration. That's exactly what the Society of Farm Women of Lancaster County did last Saturday at its 80th annual convention.

About 265 members attended the day long event held at the Farm and Home Center.

ing a love for farm, home, and country.

Since the beginning, Farm Women have been staunch supporters in contributing to community needs, in developing leadership, and making homes and farms better places to live.

This year, the county's 652 members gave $13,381 to local charities. The money was raised by the 28 county societies that held numerous fund raisers throughout the year.

Each society selects different causes, but all the societies also work together to raise money for a selected charity.

(Turn to Page B3)

President Allegra Leininger, member of Society 3, said, 'I think we can truly say we are a group of ladies living our motto 'For Happiness.'"

The Lancaster chapter began in 1917, three years after Mrs. Frank Black started the organization in Somerset County. Membership grew rapidly because the principals and purposes of the organization appealed to women who placed a high emphasis on foster-

"I don't believe there's another group of people in the county who do more for their fellow men or women when there is a need," Allegra Leininger, right, said of Farm Women. As the newly installed president, Allegra will work with officers, standing beside her from right, Barbara Nissley, vice president; Julia Zahn, secretary; and Verna Hostetter, treasurer.

Holding the memorial service complete with music, roses, and scripture reading, from left, are Marian Kurtz, chairperson and member of Society 13; Sylvia Lehner, Society 21; and Roberta Shepardson, Society 18.

Mary Shellenberger, right, former county president and a member of Society 4, purchases the first Entertainment Book from Lorna King, also a member of Society 4. The book is sold as a fundraiser and is available for purchase through members or by calling Lorna at (717) 872-6632.

In one of her last duties as president, Kathryn Fry, right, presents a $2,950 check to Tina Texter, community liason,who accepted the check for Hospice of Lancaster County.

Members usually sit together as a society. Here, standing from left, Margaret Lefever, president of Society 22, and Eleanor Rudy, congratulate charter members Jeanette Miller and Vi Weiler, who joined when Society 22 was organized in 1951.

Farm Women

Katherine Fry, left, congratulates Martha Weidman, center, for reaching 90 years and remaining an active member. Martha is the mother of Arlene Witman, right. Both held many offices including county president. The mother and daughter team exemplify many members who joined because their mothers and grandmothers were members.

This year, the county project was Hospice of Lancaster County. During the Saturday celebration, members donated $2,950 to Hospice.

Tina Texter, community liason for Hospice, accepted the donation and expressed appreciation for the diligent support Farm Women continue to show for Hospice.

Donations throughout the year included the American Heart Association, community libraries, children's homes, Make-A-Wish Foundation, hospitals, women's shelters, and Self Help.

Informative meetings on breast cancer, food safety, tax reform, medicare, living wills, water pollution, estate planning, and explaining a futures contract were a few of the topics addressed throughout the year.

"I don't believe there's another group of people in the county who do more for their fellow men or women when there is a need than you," said Allegra Leininger, who was installed as president during the afternoon session.

Other officers installed by Lois Hughes, state president, included Barbara Nissley, vice president; Julia Zahn, secretary; and Verna Hostetter, treasurer.

But Farm Women activities don't always involve only raising funds and business sessions. Members enjoy Victorian tea parties, holding an Irish program with everything colored green and telling corny Irish jokes, dinner theaters, trips, and socializing with other society members.

Ninety-year pins were presented to Marion Fuhrman, Society 1; Ruth Zeamer, Society 4; Martha Weidman, Society 5; Alma Maule, Society 15; and Reba Gring, 100 years old.

On a somber note, members

They are already sorely missed.

For the past several months, they have graced the backyard with their beauty and color. They have supplied an abundance of brightness and bouquets, both for our house and that of friends and relatives. And they have been a honey of a blessing to the bees, who aggressively staked them out as their own, as well as having drawn countless butterflies to dine at their tasty centers.

But now the season's annuals are history, banished from the beds and borders by October's series of chilly, frosty mornings.

Gosh, I miss the flowers. Almost as much as we'll miss the fresh tomatoes, once the carefully-covered stash of ripening ones are used down to the last, lingering taste in a salad or snuggled on a burger.

Especially missed are the bright pinks, glowing oranges and cheery reds of the zinnias. Unlike many plants of this droughty season, the zinnias thrived on the dry weather and baking sunshine, replacing every harvested bloom with at least two more. Cut and tucked into assorted vases, they added a warmth wherever they were used, sort of like a "happy face" that danced into the room and stayed on.

An endless parade of butterflies drank of zinnia nectar, flitting from one pollinating bloom to the next, like hungry diners sampling a buffet. They naturally favored the maturing blooms that were perhaps just a shade past their prime for cutting, and in full readiness for pollination. They would intensely work the seed-potential centers of the plants, stirring the pollen around as they probed the plants for lunch. Doing-of course-just what Mother Nature intended them to do.

A couple large stalks of tithonia, a bright, red-orange daisy-type flower, thrived in among the zinnia row in the garden and offered the butterflies a variety when they arrived to sample our floral nectar menu.

While the bees also enjoyed the zinnias, it was another annual that really enticed the buzz-er crowd.

The purchase of the single market-pack of blue salvias — nine plants — was something of an impulse buy. They were plunked into my shopping cart one day in early May, a possible solution to adding some blue to the border of red, fuschia and pink geraniums started from last year's wintered-over "mother" plants. In an attempt to get the most bang of blue from nine plants, I stuck the seedlings in the border in three clusters of three each.

Never having grown blue salvias before, I really had no idea what to expect, how well they might do or how much color they might actually add to the predominately-pink scene.

What a bargain that impulse purchase turned out to be. Those clusters swelled into three giant clumps of shiny green foliage — four feet across — topped with a continuous blooming of tall, deep-blue, long-lasting stalks. The bees promptly found them after the first two or three bloom stalks opened and sent round-the-clock relay teams to harvest an apparent bonanza of honey material. Bumble bees were especially prominent among the constant workers and somewhat protective of their treasure trove. I soon learned not to snip salvia blooms — or anything else — too close to where a bumble bee was working a blue-blossomed stalk.

And while I never got stung, there were a couple unmistakeable and close warnings of the in-your-face kind.

The salvias thumbed their blossoms at the first several frosts, but were finally done-in by Jack Frost's intensifying swipes. I broke off a few of the side shoots to try rooting and may salvage some of the rootstalks, just to see what they might do under glass for the winter. Minus the aggressive bumble bees.

So I treasure the few lingering bouquets snatched from the last frost and, like die-hard gardeners everywhere, mentally plan what to follow up with, what to keep, what to try and what to discard for next year.

Blessedly — for optimistic gardners and farmers — there's always another planting season just over the horizon.

WIFE Convention Nov. 19-22

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — As many as 200 farm women and their husbands from 28 states will convene to hear the latest in government farm policy, tax laws, retirement planning, and how Washington developments will affect American farmers and their bankers when Women Involved in Farm Economics ((WIFE) holds its national convention here Nov. 19-22.

Under secretary for Farm and Foreign Agricultural Service August "Gus" Schumacher will head a prestigious list of government officials who will address the conventioneers. Also scheduled to speak will be Keith Kelly, new national director of the United States Farm Service Agency, John Blancnfield, manager of the Agricultural Banking and Rural Development Association, Prudential Agency financial planner Dick Presky, lawyer and financial planner Jack Capron of the law group Coopers & Lybrand, and a representative of New York state, Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan (D).

Although the business affairs of WIFE will be the main focus of the four-day meet, conventioneers also will tour several Central New York facilities just for fun. The Cooperstown Baseball Hall of Fame, silver products manufacturer Oneida Silversmiths, gun manufacturer Remington Arms, and a farm tour of WIFE dairy chairwoman Kay Zeosky and husband Joe's home will provide a recreational break.

Tour-takers will participate in an auction featuring a gun manufactured by Remington Arms auctioned by "celebrity auctioneer" New York Assemblyman Bill Magee (D), an auctioneer before he became a state legislator. Oneida County Executive Ralph Eannace also will address tour-takers when they arrive at the Hulbert House restaurant in Boonville.

For more information, contact Jaun Lee, 160 Main Street, Boonville, N.Y. 13309, (315) 942-2070.

FLY & ODOR CONTROL

BIG PERFORMANCE...SMALL PRICE

SIMPLE PROCEDURE: the aerator works directly into the bed of material, forming its own windrow. Windrows can be formed from piles of nearly any size. Alleyways are not required when using the Brown aerator, so there is a great reduction in space requirements. The aerator's reverse rotation works the material from the bottom up, and to the side, assuring complete mixing and agitation. LOW MAINTENANCE: the aerator is a simple design, the principle as a material mover has been proven with over 30 years experience in practical application. The aerator is hydraulically driven and equipped with patented wearplates or paddles, both of which are easily replaced.

held a memorial service in memory of members who had passed away during the year. Holding the memorial service complete with music, roses, and scripture reading were Marian Kurtz, chairperson and member of Society 13; Roberta Shepardson, Society 18; and Sylvia Lehner, Society 21.

The 10 deceased members were Anna Mae Huber, Ruth Felty, Miriam Reimer, Serena Groff, Frances Fredd, Dorothy Johnson, Nina Eshleman, Verna Noll, Sara Conrey, and Ann Boose.

During the business session, Julia Zahn; secretary; Verna Hostetter, treasurer; and Nancy Wiker, extension home economist, gave reports.

Lancaster County Dairy Princess Elizabeth Smith and Alternate Megan Good served milk punch to the guests.

Joanne Swords, harpist, explained the different shapes and styles of harps and the roles harpists played throughout history.

Because harpists in medieval times were considered to have magical powers that influenced people by their music, they were sometimes beheaded.

Joanne demonstrated proper techniques in playing the harp and told how graceful movements were developed by a ballet instructor. Joanne played melodius, soothing music on a harp that she and her dad built.

"His Image" composed of Ken and Rita Martin with Audra Martin provided special music during the afternoon session.

In other business, Lorna King said that the county society is again selling the Entertainment '98 Discount Book for Lancaster-York counties. Editions are also available for Harrisburg, Berks, Lebanon, and Schuylkill counties. Out-of-state editions may also be ordered.

Profits from the sale of the books are used for fund raisers.

For a copy of the discount book, contact a Farm Women member or call Lorna at (717) 872-6632.

President Allegra Leininger, a member of Society 3, said, "I think we can truly say we are a group of ladies living our motto, 'For Happiness.'"

Lancaster County Dairy Princess Elizabeth Smith serves milk punch and cheese varieties during registration for the convention.

Joanne Swords plays the harp that she and her dad built.

Serve The Perfect Pie

Can she bake a cherry pie?

In some generations that question became parents' deciding factor or whether or not "she" was a suitable wife for their son.

Although baking a pie is seldom a premarital concern in today's generation, it certainly helps increase spousal approval to be able to bake a pie with a flaky crust to just the right amount of doneness. Here are some tricks of the trade.

HOW TO MAKE A PASTRY CRUST

To make a two-crust 9-inch pie: combine 1¾ cups sifted pastry flour , 1 teaspoon salt, and ⅔ cup shortening in mixing bowl. With an electric mixer, blend at low speed for 30 seconds or until the mixture has the consistency of lumpy cornmeal.

Add the cold water and mix at low speed for about 15 seconds, until the dough clings together.

Coat your hands lightly with flour and roll the dough into a bowl.

Coat a pastry board or cloth and a rolling pin lightly with flour.

Fold the dough onto the prepared board or cloth, and roll it into a circle about ⅛ -inch thick. Roll from the center to the edge lifting the pie a bit as you approach the edge. To keep the thickness even, do this in four directions. If the edges split, pinch the dough together with your fingers.

For a pie shell.:

Place the pie plate upside down in the center of the dough and cut a circle around it as much wider as the vessel is deep. (The dough should be large enough to fill the plate plus have some overhang).

Fold the dough lightly over the rolling pin. Lift the rolling pin over the vessel and unfold the dough loosely into vessel without stretching the dough.

Use a knife to trim the dough from the outer rim of the plate. Fold the dough over the lip and use your fingers or a fork to flute the edge all around.

Seal the shell:

Preheat oven to 450 degrees. Prick the bottom and sides of the pastry with a fork.

Baste the bottom and sides (but not the lip) of the pastry wih unbeaten egg white or Dijon mustard.

Bake 5 to 10 minutes, until the bottom is firm and golden.

When the bottom crust is golden brown, pour in the filling.

For a top crust: Roll out a crust ⅛ -inch thck and large enough to extend ½ -inch beyond the edge of the plate.

Brush one side of the crust with unbeaten egg white to seal it so it is not softened by steam from the filling as it cooks.

Carefully lift the top pastry and place it based side down over the filling.

Fold the edge under the outer rim of the lower crust and use your fingers or a fork to flute it all around.

Cut vents into the top to allow steam to escape.

Bake at 350 to 400 degrees until the crust browns to your liking.

From Goulash to Garbage!

When's the last time you used your paprika? Deveied eggs perhaps? Just how old is it anyway?

These questions have been prompted by a caller faced with a most embarrassing situation. Dinner for the family (luckily, not for company!) was to be an easy casserole. Before cooking, paprika was added according to the recipe and dinner was ruined. It never made it to the oven because of the Indian Meal Moth larva in the spice.

So much for that meal! This little bug and another critter, the cigtarette beetle, love spices. That's why the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture suggests that spices should not be kept on the shelf for longer than three years.

According to Carol Wagner, home economist for John Wagner & Sons Purveyors to Epicures since 1847 in Ivyland, ground spices lose much of their strength after six months anyway. The McCormick®/Shilling® (800-632-5847) folks give paprika and many other spices a shelf life of only two years and suggest that paprika be refrigerated.

The only safe way to get rid of spice bug infestation is to locate all of them and discard or destroy the spices. DO NOT PUT INSECTICIDES NEAR OR ON FOOD OR FOOD CONTAINERS - and that includes spices!

Yes, spices can be expensive... but, for your own piece of mind, check them now to be safe — especially with the holidays fast upon us.

Now that you've checked your spice rack carefully, you may have to purchase new paprika. Don't let it go to waste! To help use it up, here's a recipe.

Hungarian-Style Goulash

3 Tablespoons butter or margarine
6 medium onions, thinly sliced (about 2 lbs.)
2 pounds beef stew meat, cut into 1" chunks
1/4 cup paprika (this should use it up in no time!)
1 bay leaf
1/2 cup sour cream
1/2 cup low-fat yogurt

About 3½ hours before serving, in a Dutch oven over medium-high heat, in hot butter or margarine, cook onions, stirring occasionally, until lightly browned (about 15 minutes or so). Add stew meat, paprika, and bay leaf. Reduced heat to low; cover and simmer 3 hours or until meat is fork-tender, stirring occasionally (if meat sticks to pan, add a tablespoon or two of water). Discard bay leaf. Stir in sour cream. Serve over noodles. Makes 6 servings. (from "The Good Housekeeping Cookbook," edited by Zoe Coulson. The Hearst Corporation, NY. 1973.)

FFA Leadership for a growing planet

Conrad Weiser FFA Supports Reintroduction Of Elm Trees

The Conrad Weiser High School FFA is doing its part to preserve an American symbol. Through the dedication of its students, the American elm tree is being given a second chance.

The American elm has long been a part of American history. Often the meeting place of the Sons of Liberty, the elm was dubbed the Liberty Tree after August 1765 when effigies were hung upon an elm tree in Boston to protest the Stamp Act.

The elm soon grew in popularity, lining the streets of many American cities, until the 1930s when Dutch Elm Disease (DED), also known as "the blight," began to wreck havoc upon the trees. The DED fungus, carried by American and European elm bark beetles, destroyed the trees, killing them within months or years. Since the beginning of the DED devastation spreading throughout America, more than 90 percent of the millions of elms which once were prominent have now died.

One of the many attempts to increase elm tree numbers in the United States was the development of the Liberty Elm, a cultivar augmented by Eugene Smalley and Don Lesher of the University of Wisconsin at Madison. The Liberty elm was the result of extensive research and testing which led to the selection of six American elms that survived injections of DED. The collection of these elms became the Liberty elm.

The Conrad Weiser FFA obtained the elms from the Elm Research Institute, a nonprofit organization located in Harrisville, N.H., the sole distributor of the Liberty Elm. Members of Conrad Weiser's FFA have been regularly caring for the trees in the Ag Department's elm nursery in order to distribute them to the community.

The students hope that you will be interested in purchasing an elm tree at this prime time for planting. Prices for 3- to 5-foot elms are $30, and for 6- to 9-foot elms $75. If you have questions or would like to place an order, please call the Ag Science Department at (610) 693-8537.

Mini-Horses Break Down Barriers In This 4-H Club

NEWARK, Del. — "You've got a purpose in life — to make people smile, boy," calls Genevieve ('Vivi') du Pont to her miniature horse, Toy Mint.

Settling into the seat of the horse-drawn cart, du Pont pauses to reassure the teenager beside her.

"You can hold my arm, that's OK," she tells her, as she clucks to Toy Mint. As the horse begins to pull the cart forward, the girl's face beams.

Riding in a horse-drawn cart is a rare treat for 18-year-old Vandy Huffman of Williamstown, N.J., who has cerebral palsy. And 4-H club leader du Pont knows it's one way to bring a smile to her face.

du Pont has been sharing her miniature horses on a regular basis with people with disabilities since she founded the Dilworth/Cozy Corner 4-H Club two years ago in Kenton, Del. 4-H is the youth organization of Cooperative Extension. Through the horses, du Pont provides opportunities for children and adults to transcend their problems.

"Many people who are physically and mentally challenged come here with low self-esteem," says du Pont. "Often their feelings get trapped in their bodies because they can't express themselves. These little horses do so much to help them. Caring for the animals helps them deal with their own emotions."

Du Pont's efforts were recognized when her Kent County 4-H club won high honors in the 1997 "Colgate Youth for America" campaign, a nationwide search for the best community projects by young Ameriocans. The Dilworth/Cozy Corner 4-H Club took the fourth-place price in the 24th annual campaign, competing against clubs and troops of six national youth organizations that included 4-H, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Girls Incorporated, and Boys and Girls Clubs.

"I was thrilled to win a prize," says du Pont. "I just try to make this club fun so that everybody leaves here happy with themselves."

Du Pont, 53, is no stranger to hardship. A rubella (German measles) baby, she was born 95 percent blind. She has been diagnosed with multiple sclerosis and diabetes. Two auto accidents injured her foot and her back so severely that she now relies on an electric wheelchair and a golf cart to get around her 32-acre Kenton farm.

Cozy Corner, du Pont's fully handicapped-accessible farm, is a veritable menagerie. In addition to her 35 minitaure horses, she keeps company with two llamas, two goats, a donkey, a cow, 10 dogs (including a three-legged Doberman called Moose), a miniature flying squirrel and six talking birds. Du Pont breeds, raises, trains, sells and shows her miniature horses, which grow to only 34 inches tall at the shoulder.

"Miniature horses were originally bred in Europe for children of royal families," says du Pont. "Because of their strength, they were used in America in mines, where they pulled loads of up to 400 pounds. Now they are raised only for show. They are easy to handle and bond well with people."

Du Pont teaches her 4-H club members, with or without disabilities, to groom, handle, walk, and show the miniature horses. She even takes members with her to compete in regional and national shows, which only recently — thanks to her relentless campaigning — began to offer handicapped classes in competitions.

In addition to competing, members of the Dilworth/Cozy Corner 4-H Club go on field trips, participate in parades, and do community service projects such as taking the miniature horses to greet the residents of nursing homes.

"Some of the old folks in the homes haven't talked in years," she says. "But when they get near the horses, their eyes light up and they don't stop talking."

Ted Palmer, Kent County Extension agent for 4-H, calls du Pont an "outreach person."

"Vivi is very community-minded," says Palmer. "This summer, she invited the whole Kent County Cloverbud 4-H Camp to her farm for a tour. She's a wonderful role model."

Du Pont welcomes children and adults of all ages and abilities to her 4-H club.

"Mainly it's about getting abled and disabled people together so that they can learn to deal with people who are different from themselves," she says. "This club runs on love. Anybody can join.

"I probably get more out of it than the members do," she adds. "If I can't help somebody every day, I don't feel I've accomplished anything."

Vandy Huffman, 18, enjoys a cart ride behind a miniature horse at the Dilworth/Cozy Corner 4-H Club in Kenton, Del. From left, club leader Vivi du Pont, Vandy and Vandy's mother, Penny Huffman.

What is El Niño?
Pay close attention to the weather forecast on TV tonight. Chances are you'll hear the forecaster refer to weather effects from El Niño — especially during the winter time.
An El Niño occurs when water in the Pacific Ocean warms. This phenomenon happens about every four years. The warm water around South American begins to evaporate and form clouds. This changes the air temperature and the winds above the water.
That might not seem like a big deal, but changes in temperatures can have really big effects. Air currents, and whether that air is warm or cold and moist or dry, along with the temperature of water, play a huge role in creating all of the different kinds of weather conditions that happen around the world
In years when there is an El Niño, there usually are heavy rains along the coast of Florida, droughts in Australia, and warm mild winters in Alaska and Canada. Trade winds, or winds that blow in tropical regions, tend to blow faster during El Niño years. And because of the warmer water, massive numbers of fish die. Fish and ocean animals have to have the cold ocean water to survive.
So why the name El Niño? Fisherman gave it this name, which means The Little One in Spanish, not because it is little, but because they usually begin to see the effect right around Christmas when the birth of the Christ child is celebrated.

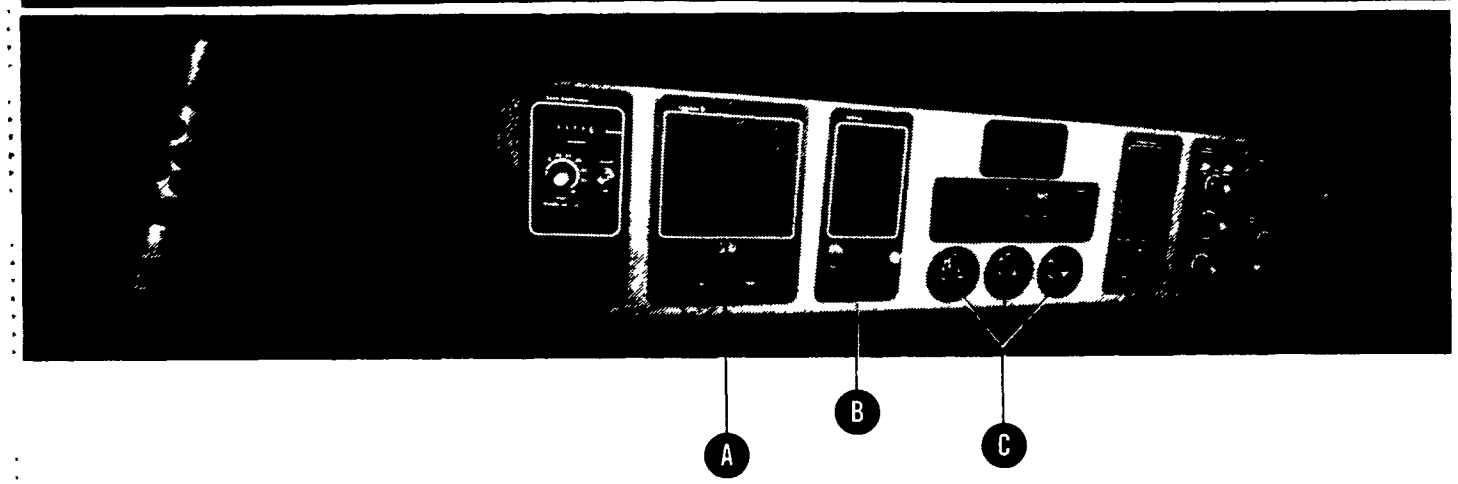
The Heart And Soul Of GLEANER



Our Monitoring System Lets You Concentrate On The Job At Hand.

You won't need to second-guess how well your combine's performing. Because in every GLEANER rotary combine, there's a state-of-the-art monitoring system that constantly watches key functions like the rear-feed conveyor and discharge impeller/chopper. When attention is needed, you'll be alerted either visually or audibly. Just another way GLEANER combines are engineered for better returns.

A Tattletale III

Monitors the speeds and signals when a function has slowed down or stopped.

B Tattletale V

This warning system monitors the engine and other important features and warns both by an audible alarm and warning light. It even tells you when the grain tank is full.

- Engine Overload Alarm
  Alerts you with an audible alarm when the engine rpm has dropped 100 rpm below rated speed. And tells you when the combine efficiency has cropped.
- Bin Level Monitor
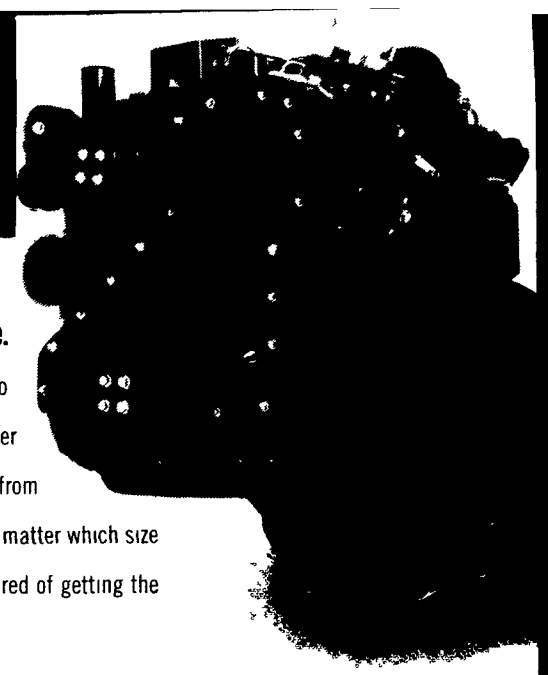
  Lets you know when the bin is full or near full. Sensors in the grain tank can be set to your specifications.

C Oil pressure, Oil/Collant Temperature and Voltage Meter

These gauges are in addition to the same functions monitored on Tattletale V but with separate sending units to give you added reliability and performance.



Cummins® Diesel Engine. With this engine, you get to choose the kind of horsepower you want Just take your pick from the 185 to 330 hp engine No matter which size you go with, you can be assured of getting the most power for your money

Drive/Propulsion System. A large, high-torque, split hydrostatic drive unit coupled with a four-speed transmission

Decades Of Fashions Intrigue Frederick Farm Women

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

WOODSBORO, Md. — It was something old, something new, something country, something city as two women's groups here joined together to celebrate a century of fashions. Sponsored jointly by the Frederick County Farm Bureau Women and the Frederick Business and Professional Women's Club, Inc., the Decades of Fashions program served as this year's Farm-City activity for the Farm Bureau Women, and drew a crowd of almost 300 to the Fireman's Activities building in Woodsboro.

"This is the first time we've had a joint venture to promote Farm-City week," noted Louise Ediger, Farm-City committee member, "We felt that through fashion we could reach out to women," she explained of the women's decision to join with the Business and Professional women. The county farm women have a history of very successful outreach programs for Farm-City week, and last year were honored with an award for their service at the state level. Funds raised by the program benefit scholarship programs, community projects, and the educational promotion of agriculture.

Bill and Barbara Crum were attired as a hardworking farm couple of days gone by. Barbara wore a traditional long-sleeved, ankle length dress of blue gingham. The apron is accented with blue daisies. A sun bonnet and an egg basket completed her outfit. Her husband Bill was dressed in bib overalls and a crisp chambray work shirt. He wore a broadbrimmed straw hat and carried a red bandanna and a two-pronged hay fork.

The fasion review followed a social hour and buffet dinner of baked ham and roasted turkey. John Fieseler, a member of Frederick County's 250th anniversary committee, served as master of ceremonies for the event, and Diane Ogg, Frederick County farm queen, offered the invocation. First historical fashions were modeled by the farm women. Mary Jane Roop served as commentator. Although the fashions would have charmed the audience on their looks alone, Roop's colorful, thoroughly researched comments added another layer of appreciation by placing each fashion in its historical context. Many of the women modeled clothing worn by their relatives long ago, and others donned historically accurate reproductions. In many cases the audience was treated to a narrative of a day in the life of a farm woman with a name still common in today's farming community.

Florence Shell of Walkersville, a collector of period clothing, graciously lent seven outfits from her extensive collection to the Farm Bureau women for the gala event. Mrs. Shell provided more than 20 outfits for the 75th anniversary fashion show in 1996 put on by the women's committee. Her generosity has made it possible for the community to enjoy a wide array of antique fashions.

In all 15 old-time fashions were displayed on the runway to the delighted audience. They ranged from wedding dresses to mourning attire; from women's swimwear to children's playclothes. Each garment was significant in its own merit. The youngest model was master Roy Patrick Amaral, modeling a 1912 baptismal gown that was owned and originally worn by Katherine Morgan Stull. The gown was lovingly made by her grandmother, Carrie Eyler Morgan from 100% cotton with an intricately pleated top. Hemmed in eyelet, the tiny creation has 10 rows of pleats on the bottom. Master Amaral was carried by his proud grandmother who wore a promenade dress of mauve cotton print with weskit jacket.

Following the historical fashion show, the Business and Professional Women presented a parade of clothing suitable for today's professional women.

Julie Roop demonstrated what a fashionable young lady living in the early 1900's might wear.

Time To Plan For Enjoyable Season

Seven Weeks Until Christmas

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — If you have an image of what the ideal family and the perfect Christmas should be, then it's time to "think clearly about the rush of it all," Phyllis Pellman Good said at Berks County Extension's annual holiday program.

According to Good, seven weeks until Christmas gives us enough time to make a choice about what we want to do and what is "do-able."

The barrage of ideas for food, gifts, decorating, and entertaining offered by Good and other speakers will either make the holiday season more enjoyable or more hectic, depending on each person's response.

'If it's more of a burden than fun, then don't do it,' Good said about deciding whether or not to continue a Christmas tradition.

The person who wants to try everything presented will probably end up frazzled and short tempered, but those who select and begin what they consider most important will probably find the holidays enjoyable.

Good shared selections from a book she authored, "Christmas Ideas For Family." Ideas for decorating, food, advent, music, giving, receiving, shopping, and celebrating focus on things anyone can do without a lot of expense or major projects.

"If it's more of a burden than fun, then don't do it," Good said about deciding whether or not to continue a Christmas tradition.

Polish Holiday Traditions

Susan Szczesniak-Anastasio and her 3-year-old son Thomas dressed in native Polish costumes to share how Christmas is celebrated in Poland.

Food, decorating, family, and music are as much a part of Polish tradition as it is in America, Anastasio said of the similarities between the two countries.

"We decorate to the hilt and the month is full of anticipation and planning," she said.

Christmas Eve is considered the most sacred. There is always a thin layer of hay placed beneath a crisp white linen tablecloth to remind people of where Christ was born. An empty place is always set as a reminder that Christ is a welcomed guest. A door is always left open as a sign of welcome as a guest in the home is considered as Christ in the home. At the same time, Polish people strive to serve an even number of guests because according to superstition, serving an uneven number is a foreboding of death to a family member.

Supper begins when the first star is sighted in the sky. The host couple begins the meal with the breaking of unleaven bread which they exchange with each other and hug and kiss. Guests follow the example.

If there has been any animosity between family members and guests, it is forgiven and forgotten at Christmas when good harmony prevails.

Much of the food served traditionally in Polish homes holds a symbolic meaning. For example, poppy seeds is a symbolic gesture of a good night's sleep and honey the sweetness of toil.

Fay Strickler, home economist, shared many Polish recipes. Here are a few:

Nut Or Poppy Seed Rolls

1 pound butter
1 small yeast dissolved in ¼ cup warm water
4 cups flour
4 eggs, beaten

West End Youth Receives 4-H Award

Derek Arnold, Brodheadsville, a 4-H member of the Collection Connection 4-H Club, has been seleted as the recipient of the Robert A. Jensen Citizenship Award, a 4-H award given annually in recognition of Robert A. Jensen, a Vietnam Veteran of Monroe County who died in 1968 while serving his country.

Derek has been an active 4-H member of Monroe County for seven years. Derek's project work in entomology has helped him become involved in programs in the county and even on the state level. Derek has won awards for his entomology collection at the West End Fair, Pennsylvania State Farm Show and was invited to show his collections at the Penn State University's "Great Insect Fair" for both 1996 and 1997. Derek also identifies moths collected in grower's fields for the Sweet Corn Integrated Pest Mangement Program to help reduce the use of pesticides. Derek attends Pius X school and is on their varsity football team.

Member Awards Presented

Another 4-H year has come to a close with the annual Achievement Night program held recently at the Montrose United Methodist Church. The gathering of 4-H families and friends was greeted by County Council President Kevin Harvatine, who proclaimed that everything he needs to know he has learned through 4-H.

The 4-H Ambassadors were then introduced: Tami Cobb, Benjamin Hibbard, Jenni Marcho, Cody Peranich, and Tammy Valashinas. The ambassadors brought the crowd to their feet with songs and a tic-tac-toe mixer, and proceeded to acknowledge the many sponsors of the county 4-H program. Northeastern Farm Credit was awarded the 1997 Outstanding Community Support Certificate. Charlotte Zebley and Donna Brown accepted the award.

4-H members from across the county were recognized for outstanding achievement in many program areas. The first member awards were presented to Teen Leaders, Julie Stalter, Tammy Valashinas, Curtis Keihl, Charles Keihl, Joellyn Himka and Kerri Pratt. Teen leaders are a vital part of the 4-H program. There are many teens who accept leadership roles within their clubs or the county program. The members named above accepted leadership roles in addition to completing a leadership project.

Club News Reporters are members who were elected by their peers to share events and happenings of their clubs with the community through newspaper articles. Three News Reporters were awarded certificates for their outstanding work in 1997. Abigail Onyon reported for the North Jackson Ag Club, Lindsay Place reported for the Hoofs in Clover Horse and Pony Club and the DES Dairy Club, and Kevin Nesta reported for the Paws 'n' Tails Dog Club and the Dimock Community Club.

Four members were acknowledged for their 4-H Project Diversity. There are literally hundreds of 4-H projects available to 4-H members in Susquehanna County. To complete the 4-H year, each member must meet the requirements of at least one project. Elizabeth Seman and Sarah Holmes of the Sunrise and Sunset 4-H Club each completed eight projects, and Danica Newman of the South Montrose Busy Bees also completed eight projects. Benjamin Hibbard, a member in the Dimock Community 4-H and the Born to Show Dairy Clubs completed nine different projects.

Five 4-H members received scholarships at the Achievement Night Program: Kevin Harvatine received two scholarships, one from the Livestock Scholarship Fund, and the other from the Development Fund. Andrea Garner also received two scholarships, one from Northeastern Farm Credit and the other from the Development Fund. David Harvatine was awarded a development Fund Scholarship, and Melissa Kanna and Cory Peranich each received scholarships from the Horse and Pony Scholarship Fund.

Member awards were completed with the announement of the 1997 Susquehanna County Outstanding 4-H'ers: Andrea Garner and Kevin Harvatine. Andrea and Kevin have been 4-H members for the past 10 years and have capitalized on the opportunities that 4-H has offered them. Each was awarded an engraved silver tray.

A new 4-H year is under way. Some clubs continue to meet throughout the year, while others will reorganize early next spring. New members and leaders are always welcome. Christmas

Fay Strickler, extension home economist, shows how to fold napkins in a turkey form for the Thanksgiving table.

Sandra Stief shows how to make a tree from wild vines.

Ideas for table settings for Thanksgiving and for Christmas were on display during the 'Create Holiday Traditions' offered at the Berks County Extension on Nov. 4-5.

Walnut Torte

12 eggs, separated
1 cup sugar
6 tablespoons flour
½ pound walnuts, ground fine

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add sugar gradually. Add the walnuts and flour and mix thoroughly. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in three well-buttered 8-inch layer cake pans for 30 to 35 minutes in 350 degree oven.

Filling:

½ pound walnuts, ground fine
1 cup powdered sugar
½ cup sweet cream

Mix well and spread between layers of cake.

Frosting: Make your favorite recipe for white butter cream icing and frost top and sides of torte.

Holiday Vines With Preserved Decorations

Sandra Stief, master gardener, demonstrated making trees from wild vines. She used an upside-down tomato cage covered with wire fencing to form a tree shape.

Choose only live pliable vines no larger than ¼ -inch in diameter for the tree. Do not shorten the length of the vine, but cut off any side shoots. Save the thinner side shoots and vines for the top. Start wrapping the vines at the bottom of the fenced cage by securing the end inside one of the 1-inch fence openings. Wrap the vine tighly around the cage, being sure to avoid gaps between wraps. Secure end of vine inside 1-inch fence opening. Continue to wrap vines around cage, working to the top.

To finish off the top of the tree, insert four two-foot arches of vines across the top of the cage. Then finish by wrapping the vines around the arches.

Check the tree for gaps and fill in with extra vines. Decorate with some of the following: ribbons, cinnamon sticks, dried fruit, rose hips, miniature lights, and Christmas ornaments.

Drying Fruits For Decoration

"Drying times are affected by the size of the load, thickness of the sliced produce, humidity, temperature of your home, altitude, the moisture content of the food itself, and how many trays are in use. Times may vary greatly from one area of the country to another, or even from day to day," Stief said.

Spread fruits in single layer. Usual drying temperature is 135 degrees.

Apples: pare, core, and cut into ⅓ -inch rings, and dip in pretreatment of sodium bisulfate or a combination of ascorbic and citric acids to prevent discoloration. A dip into pineapple or lemon juice will often be all that is needed for satisfactory results. Dryness test-finished when pliable. Time 4-15 hours.

Oranges: Do not peel. Cut ⅓ -inch circles. Navel oranges work best. Dry 5-15 hours.

Pantry Gifts

For the person who enjoys cooking, Debbie Weaver and Debbie Hartman, both master gardeners, share recipes and hints for preparing gourmet gifts and ideas for packaging the gifts. Here are some ideas:

Cranberry Mustard

¼ cup brown sugar
½ cup Dijon mustard
¾ cup fresh or frozen cranberries, finely chopped
¼ cup molasses

Combine all ingredients in a medium saucepan. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and cook for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pack into hot sterilized jars. Wipe jars clean, adjust two-piece caps, and process in a boiling water bath for 10 minutes. Makes about 1½ cups. Can be used as a glaze for chicken, turkey, ham, or a sandwich spread.

Pecan Praline Syrup

2 cups dark corn syrup
½ cup dark brown sugar
½ cup water
1¼ cups pecan halves
½ teaspoon vanilla

Combine syrup, sugar, and water in a saucepan. Bring to a boil; boil one minute. Reduce heat; stir in pecans and vanilla; simmer 6 minutes. Ladle hot syrup into hot jars, leaving ¼ -inch headspace. Wip jar mouths clean, and adjust two-piece caps. Process 10 minutes in a boiling water canner. Yield: 3 half pints.

Good served on ice cream, pound cake, bread pudding, etc.

Forcing Bulbs for Winter Color

Tulip, crocus, daffodil and grape hyacinth bulbs can be 'forced' into bloom indoors during the winter. This is the first of a two-part series on how to force bulbs for winter enjoyment.

Start your spring show 'early' in the winter. 'Forcing' bulbs indoors simulates outdoor fall and winter competitions. Bulbs easiest to force are hyacinth, paperwhite narcissus, and amaryllis. Tulips, daffodils, crocus, Iris reticulata, muscari (grape hyacinth), and scilla are also easily forced with a few simple directions.

Most bulbs should be potted in the fall for December and January bloom. Choose containers that drain well and are approximately twice as deep as the bulb. Light soil should be used, such as a mixture of equal parts of garden or potting soil, peat, and sand.

Plant tulips, hyacinths, and narcissus, with their tips exposed slightly at the soil line. Smaller bulbs, such as crocus, scilla, and muscari, should be covered by 1/2 inch of the soil mixture. Bulbs should be planted close together, but not crowded against each other or the side of the pot. Tulips should be placd with their flat sides to the side of the pot, as the first large leaf grows from this side and thus makes an attractive pot.

Water the plants and label them with the date and type of bulb. The next step is to stimulate winter and break the bulbs' dormancy by keeping them at a temperature of 35-45° F for 8 to 12 weeks for early spring-flowering bulbs such as crocus, hyacinth, and daffodils. Allow at least 15 weeks for late spring flowering bulbs such as tulips. Bury the pots outdoors, or storing them in a cold frame, unheated garage, or in the refrigerator. Plants stored outside should be set into a trench and covered with 6 to 8 inces of sand, straw, leaves, or shredded styrofoam.

Indoors, in a cool cellar or garage, keep the pots in darkness and above freezing. Storing them in a styrofoam ice chest will keep their temperature from fluctuating. When storing in a refrigerator, put the pots in a plastic bag to conserve their moisture. Keep them away from ripening fruit. Check all pots occasionally to be sure they are still moist.

After about 12 weeks, the bulbs will be showing yellowish-white sprouts with a good root system. Bring the pots into a cool bright room (50-60° F). Temperatures above 70° F will damage the flower buds. After about four days, when the flower buds begin to show color, the pots may be bought into warmer areas of the house. Daffodils and crocuses prefer cool temperatures of 60-65° F, while tulips and hyacinths like warmer temperatures of 65-72 ° F. The blooming time will be shortened by warmer temperatures and the bulbs should be moved to a cool location at night. Potting and bringing in the bulbs on a staggered schedule can supply a succession of indoor blooms.

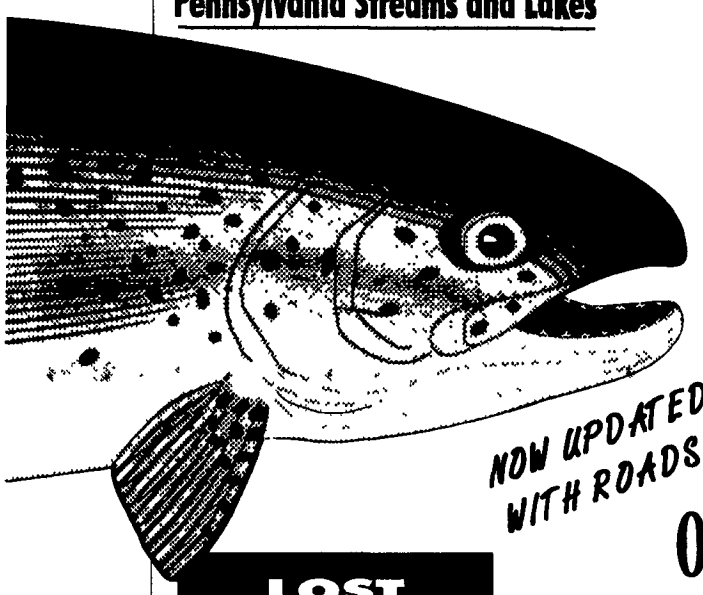
Pennsylvania Streams and Lakes



NOW UPDATED WITH ROADS!

GREAT GIFT !

Stream MAP of Pennsylvania

Why every fisherman needs this map

It is estimated that 10% of all the fishermen catch 90% of the fish. Regardless of which group you fall into... there's a sure way to up your odds... simply try new fishing waters. Fish where few fishermen ever fish.

Pennsylvania is loaded with great fishing waters...many of them overlooked. From the Lake Erie tributaries to the Delaware River...thousands of miles of streams, lakes and rivers are now easy-to-locate on one map.

Professor Higbee's Stream Map of Pennsylvania is the first and only highly detailed map of its kind. This 3 foot by 5 foot color map shows virtually all of the 45,000 miles of Pennsylvania streams plus lakes. That's almost three times the earth's circumference!

Professor Higbee's STREAMS

The STREAM MAP of PENNSYLVANIA was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

The map is also known as the LOST STREAM MAP to some anglers.

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible...a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 x 5 foot map.

The map sold extremely well -- until it was lost several years later. Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to the landfill.

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession. Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

The experts had always told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue.

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Holding an updated map, Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

Consuming Thoughts

by

Fay Strickler

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.

With the stores already filled with holiday items many of us are forced to think about the holidays. We also want to get the house ready for the friends and family members who will be visiting.

One area of concern to the cook will be the kitchen. Will it pass your mother-in-law's white glove inspection? More importantly, could it pass a food safety inspection? If not, these guidelines will help get your kitchen in tip-top shape for the holidays.

Start with the freezer. Is it frozen-over or jam-packed with food? If so, it will not hold frozen meat and poultry at safe freeze temperatures O degrees F or below. When you defrost the freezer, examine frozen items carefully and discard foods that have changed in appearance or texture. When returning food to the freezer, check package dates and sort items so that you can use them within recommended storage times.

Next, check your refrigerator. If you have leftover meat and poultry dishes, use them as soon as possible. These foods can be stored in the refrigerator from three to four days. Fresh meat and poultry should be used within one to three days. Also check the "sell-by" or "use-by" date on mayonnaise, salad dressing and other foods which need refrigeration. Throw away outdated, moldy and obviously spoiled foods.

To get rid of the odor that may linger from spoiled food, wash the refrigerator with baking soda and water and put a box of baking soda in it to absorb odors.

To store food safely in the freshly cleaned refrigerator be sure that the temperature is set at 40 degrees F or below to prevent most bacterial growth. Tightly cover all foods and use them within the recommended storage times. Don't overload the refrigerator. Cold air must be able to circulate to keep foods at optimal temperatures.

Countertops, sinks and utensils also may need extra care. To keep bacteria from spreading from raw to cooked foods, wash the countertop, sink and utensils after they have been used to prepare raw meat and poultry. Carefully scrub and clean wooden cutting boards since bacteria can harbor in the groves left by knives. A hard, nonporous cutting board is better for preventing the spread of bacteria. Also, wash kitchen linen often and throw away old sponges.

Kitchen appliances should work properly. Use the oven thermometer to check the temperature in your conventional oven. Use a meat thermometer to cook meat and poultry to the proper internal temperatures. Poultry is thoroughly cooked at 180 degrees F to 185 degrees F; beef and other meat should reach 160 degrees F.

Check the microwave oven too. Stale food particles left in the microwave can interfere with cooking time. To clean the microwave oven, place a mixture of lemon juice and water inside the oven and turn it on until mixture simmers. The steam will condense on the oven surface and make food much easier to remove. The lemon juice will absorb odors.

If you have meat and poultry questions call the USDA Meat and Poultry Hotline: 1-800-535-4555

HAPPENINGS

4-H Achievement Night

There were four 4-H clubs in Susquehanna County in 1997 that attained a 100 percent completion rate, which means that every member of the club successfully completed at least one 4-H project.

Each 4-H project requires something specific to be completed, depending on the subject matter. Every project requires an exhibit at the county-wide roundup, and the completion of record book.

The Delmonicos 4-H Club, the Golden Fleece 4-H Club, the Rock Ridge Riders 4-H Club, and the Sizzlin' Steaks 4-H Club were all awarded certificates for 100 percent completion at the annual 4-H Achievement Night program held recently in Montrose.

Susquehnna County 4-H clubs are ecnouraged to participate in promotional and community service projects in addition to their individual member projects. At the achievement night program, many clubs were recognized for their accomplishments in these areas.

Three clubs received awards for creating displays for National 4-H Week: Cowboys and Cubbers, Born to Show Dairy, and the County Council. East Bridgewater was recognized for having participated in parades. And, four clubs were honored for their efforts through newspaper articles: Paws 'n' Tails, Dimock Community, Hoofs in Clover, and North Jackson Ag.

Nearly all of the 4-H clubs in Susquehanna County realize the important benefits of community service. The folowing clubs were presented with certificates in recognition of community service in 1997: Acre Lake, Born to Show, Deckertown, Delmonicos, DES Dairy, Dimock Community, East Bridgewater, East Rush, Franklin Hill, Hoofs in Clover, Irish Hill Shamrocks, Maple Ridge, Mountain View Horse and Pony, Rock Ridge Riders, Schooley Pond, Sizzlin' Steaks, and South Montrose Busy Bees.

The Dimock Community 4-H Club was commended for an exceptional recored of five different service projects: beautificaiton, litter pickup, leaf removal, roundup lunch stand, and a project with the Montrose Rotary to assist children in West Virginia. Four of these community service projects are included in the club plan each year. The cooperative effort with the Rotary Club was a special addition to last year's agenda.

The Achievement Night Awards Program concluded with the declaration of Blue Ribbon clubs. This new award in 1997 was earned by two clubs: Deckertown Community 4-H and Dimock Community 4-H. Three clubs were given honorable mention: Born to Show Dairy 4-H Club, DES Dairy 4-H Club, and Hoofs in Clover 4-H Horse and Pony Club.

The Blue Ribbon Club Award is presented to every 4-H club which accumulates 500 or more points on the Blue Ribbon Club Guidelines Form. Clubs use this form to tally points they earn through various aspects of the 4-H program. Points are acquired for everything from meeting enrollment deadlines and member completion records, to participation in community service, county events and promotional activities. Dimock 4-H accumulated 558 points and Deckertown had 535 points.

A new 4-H year is under way. Some clubs continue to meet throughout the year, while others will reorganize early next spring. New members and leaders are always welcome. For more information, contact the Cooperative Extension office in the County Office Building, Public Ave., Montrose, or call (717) 278-1158.

4-H Market Steer Feeding Program To Begin

The 1998 Wayne County County 4-H Market Beef Steer Feeding Program will begin on Saturday, Nov. 15.

4-H members, enrolled in this project area, are asked to bring their 4-H market steers to the Wayne County Fairgrounds, near the Large Show Arena, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

There are a number of considerations for the 4-H beef project member to observe for selection, feeding, health, management, and exhibition of 4-H market steers. 4-H club membership is also needed. They include:

Select a beef calf that was born mid-to-late March into early April 1997. Select only 100 percent beef blood calves, i.e. Angus, Polled or Horned Hereford, Charolais, Simmental, Maine - Anjou, Limousin, etc., or any cross-bred calves with 100 percent beef blood in the sire and dam. Do not select any crossbred calves with dairy/beef blood, i.e., Jersey-Angus, Holstein-Angus, Holstein-Hereford, Holstein-Charolais, Holstein-Simmental, etc.

• Weaning weight of these 100 percent beef blood calves should range from 500 to 600 pounds by October/November 1997.

• Select a calf that shows good growth-straight and level about the topline, shows some width and depth of hindquarter, is realtively "waste free" through the front end, shows some width and depth through the rib and loin area, and walks and "tracks" straight on strong feet and legs.

• As soon as the calf is purchased, consider "halter breaking" the beef steer. A calf that is "halter broken" early and is taught to respond to a halter and a show stick will usually respond better in the show ring.

• Most weaned beef calves have had only limited grain fed to them on pasture. Start grain to these calves slowly. Feed grain at 2 percent of their body weight. Example: A 5000-pound beef calf should receive about 10 pounds of grain per day (500 pounds x .02 = 10 pounds of grain/day). A soft feed or soft pellet is good to start these beef steers. Consider feeding a 18 percent to 20 percent protein grain initially. Corn silage, grass or hay crop halage, or baleage can be fed at a rate of 20 to 25 pounds per day. Try to include some good quality grass-type long hay into the beef steer each day. This move will help in cud-chewing and overall digestion of the grain and forages.

• Beef steers need lots of clean, fresh water at all times. Free choice salt and minerals are important, too.

• All beef steers should be checked to be sure that they are castrated. Treat for internal and external parasites with a "pour-on" for injectable parasite compound. For purposes of the Nov. 15 eartagging, freeze branding, and vet check at the Wayne County Fairgrounds, it is strongly suggested that all 4-H market steers presented that day have at least one injection of a respiratory complex product. This should be done at least 10 days to 14 days before the Nov. 15 weigh-in, etc. Check with your veterinarian for product availability.

• The 4-H Market Steer Feeding Program begins on Nov. 15 and concludes at the 1998 Wayne County Junior Livestock Sale on Aug. 15. The minimum qualifying weights, for the 1998 Wayne County Fair 4-H Market Steer Show, will be 1,050 pounds for British-breed-sired 4-H market steers (Red and Black Angus, Polled and Horned Hereford, Shorthorn, etc.) and 1,200 pounds for Continental-breed-sired 4-H market steers (Simmental, Charolais, etc.)

• One of the keys to successfully growing and finishing a 4-H beef market steer is commitment. It takes a lot of high-quality feed and forages to grow and finish a steer. 4-H members and 4-H parents need to be aware of this feeding commitment before starting this 4-H project. It is not a cheap project to maintain. A beef steer needs attention every day of the feeding program. Neglect in feeding or managing any part of this project will eventually come back to negatively impact this 4-H project.

For more information, contact the Wayne County Cooperative Extension (717) 253-5970 extension 239, or by visiting the 4-H office which is located in the basement of the Wayne County Courthouse in Honesdale.

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

Today I feel like honoring our youngest daughter who just had her 34th birthday. She was born at the Ephrata Community Hospital and was a very good baby. Maybe being our sixth child, I'd finally learned how to keep a baby happy. Since her brother had learned to read when he was four years old, she too could read sentences at 27 months — I could not believe it, but she could.

She was daring and had her share of accidents. An acetylene tank fell on her as she climbed on it and she broke her collarbone. One day she rode her bicycle over a retaining wall and into a glass storm door. Luckily, she only needed a few stitches.

All through public shcool she enjoyed being a leader. She was an announcer on the school radio and a member of the marching band. Many hot days and cold nights were spent practicing music and steps. The competition in the Cavalcade of Bands at Hershey was electrifying.

When she started at Penn State, she had two brothers already attending there. That's right, we had three in college at one time. She studied industrial engineering with courses such as "Quality Control and Reliability," "Applied Decision Analysis" and "Human Factors Engineering." She was president of the Penn State Collegiate 4-H Club and a writer for the Industrial Engineering Newsletter among many other things. You see, she was active in 4-H Clubs in Lancaster County for eight years and even conducted a cooking club in my kitchen for several years. They made a complete meal every week and cleaned up afterward.

Now she is the manager of the decaffeinating section of the Folgers Coffee Plant in Texas. So if you ever drink their decaffeinated coffee, she had a hand in it. This young lady not only has a very responsible job, but also is expecting her second child this year.

Maybe someday I'll write about our other five children who are just as wonderful according to their mother.

Keep Safety In Mind When Using Portable Kerosene Heaters

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The high cost of home heating has increased the popularity of portable kerosene heaters. But these heaters can cause problems if not treated with caution, says a housing expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Improved design has increased the efficiency and safety of most portable kerosene heaters," says Phyllis Adams, associate professor of agricultural and extension education.

"Most new kerosene heaters include several safety features, such as a lower center of gravity to prevent tipping and automatic snuffing devices to extinguish the flame if the heater is knocked over. In the newer applicances, fuel is now wick-fed rather than gravity-or pressure-fed, permitting the fuel tank to be located further from the flame.

"But despite improvements, kerosene heaters still can be serious fire and safety hazards," Adams says. "Kerosene heaters should be installed properly according to manufacturer's directions and used only in safe, well-ventilated areas. They should never be used in tightly closed rooms, garages or workshops where adequate ventilation is questionable or where there might be flammable liquids or combustible dust."

If you are considering purchasing a unit, make sure that state and local laws permit the use of unvented portable heaters in your home. Be sure to keep health and safety features in mind when choosing a specific model.

These features can include an Underwriters Laboratory (UL) or another recognized testing laboratory's label or listing; an automatic flame extinguisher in case the heater tips over; an oxygen depletion sensor; a removable fuel tank; and an accurate, easy-to-read fuel gauge.

Modern heaters are designed to burn more efficiently, reducing carbon monoxide emission from incomplete combustion. "However, ventilation still is essential when using these heaters," Adams warns. "A minimum of one square-inch opening of a window or door for every 1,000 BTU heat rating on the heater is recommended."

With surface temperatures sometimes exceeding 500 degrees Fahrenheit, kerosene heaters also can cause burns and fires if used carelessly. Adams offers some tips to stay both safe and warm when using these appliances.

"Place your heater on level ground, and keep it away from combustible walls, curtains, carpets and furniture," she says. "Also keep the heater away from high-traffic areas of a room to avoid tripping, contact burns and ignition of clothing. Children and pets should be taught to stay away from the heater.

"When using a kerosene heater, install reliable automatic smoke/fire alarm detectors and carbon monoxide detectors in the vicinity," she ways. "It's also a wise precaution to keep a Class B or C fire extinguisher nearby and easily accessible."

Using inappropriate fuel can produce excessive amounts of toxic gases, smoke or flare-ups. "Use only K-1 kerosene fuel," Adams says. "Never refuel the heater while it is still hot, and never fuel the heater indoors. Remove the fuel tank, and fill it outside." Fuel should be stored in a tightly closed safety container that is clearly labeled and kept in a safe, cool and dry place.

Are You Getting Your Money's Worth?

If You're Not Liming Properly, You're Throwing Away Part Of Every Fertilizer Dollar.

By correcting soil acidity, limestone frees-up desirable nutrients that feed your crop. Plus, limestone ties up toxic elements that reduce crop production.

High nitrogen use in modern farming practices acidifies the soil quickly. This limits your crop vigor and yields. Therefore, today it's more important than ever to lime according to soil test results. Proper liming gives you the most from your fertilizer dollar.

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

It Wasn't Raining When Noah Built His Ark...

But I bet he was glad he built it when that big rain came. Plan ahead. Keep Vitamix on hand. You will be glad you did; the first time your cow or calf gets symptoms of a contagious disease or infection.

Use Vitamix For...

*Cows after calving.
*Every virus.
*Every infection.
*Every contagious disease.
*Mastitis & Scours.
*When your cow or calf is off feed.
*Vitamix costs less than antibiotics.
*Vitamix is all natural.
*Vitamix is faster than antibiotics.
*Vitamix is free from side effects.
*Vitamix is for anything one animal can catch from another.
*Vitamix is for every dairyman who wants to stay in business.

You can use Vitamix if you have already used antibiotics and sulfa drugs; but antibiotics and sulfa drugs damage the immune system and it takes longer for your cows and calves to recover if you used antibiotics first.

You can sell the milk when you use Vitamix.

Do you remember when you raised 100 calves without losing a calf? If you are too young to remember that, ask a dairyman over 50 years old. Remember when staff mastitis and a lot of the common diseases of today were practically unheard of? Ask a Dairyman over 50 years old. All that was before the routine use of antibiotics. Use of antibiotics is like a revolving door; treating for the symptoms of another treatment. Get off the medical merry go round. Keep some Vitamix on hand.

One gallon of Vitamix is typically enough for about 60 cases of calf scours and it costs only $60.00 (when you get it by the five gallon bucket).

One gallon of Vitamix is typically enough for about 8 cases of mastitis. ($7.50 per cow). You save five days milk when you use Vitamix instead of antibiotics. Save about $40.00 per each case!!!

Vitamix is made by the same people who make Formula M.

VITAMIX, when you need a miracle!!!.

Cover Crops May Keep Pests Undercover

WOOSTER, Ohio — Soybean and corn growers have enough to worry about with wet weather and late plantings, but another pest may also be looming on the horizon.

Ohio State University's Ron Hammond has been studying seedcorn maggot damage to soybeans and he says although infestation isn't a major threat to Ohio farmers, it isn't a minor one, either.

Hammond, a researcher at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center's Wooster campus, said the seedcorn maggot damages the plants by feeding on the cotelydons — the seed lobe or primary leaf — and actually destroying the plant. The maggot also likes to feed on the soybean plumule, or the growing tip, resulting in a plant with two main branches. These plants are known as Y-plants or snakeheads. Y-plants will not grow as vigorously as normal plants.

"Either of these types of injury will result in yield loss," Hammond said. "Also, if the plant stand is poor, a grower can end up with poor weed control due to a lack of soybeans that will outcompete weeds."

Hammond has seen fields with over 50 percent stand reduction because of this insect. Normally, stand reductions are prevented with seed treatments.

Hammond has been experimenting with no-till methods to combat seedcorn maggot infestations. While it was once thought that no-till increases seedcorn maggots, that's not the case, Hammond said.

"Seedcorn maggot damage increase when a green, living cover such as alfalfa, a grass cover crop like rye or wheat, or heavy weed growth is incorporated in the field. No-till does not increase the problem according to all of our work."

Problems are limited to those growers who use a type of green, living cover crop which is incorporated into spring soils. "If they choose to leave the cover on the soil surface and kill it with herbicides, they shouldn't have a problem."

Hammond knows of growers who have plowed or disliked a cover crop, and then had poor stands. By the time they became aware of the problem, most maggots would have pupated and adults would have emerged, resulting in crop loss. The challenge is that farmers rarely think damage is caused by seedcorn maggots. Their first thought is a seed disease or planting problem.

"A majority of Ohio growers don't employ such covers in their fields," Hammond said, "so the insect shouldn't be considered a major concern. However, if alternative management practices require cover crops and growers begin to incorporate those into the soil, I would expect the problem to increase."

By the time seedcorn maggot damage is discovered, nothing can be done. A seedcorn maggot problem has to be anticipated and management tactics employed at planting time. A seed treatment is the first choice; however, there are alternative methods to insecticide seed treatments. Hammond recommends waiting two to three weeks after tillage until 250 heat units have accumulated. Maggots are attracted to the tilled cover crop to lay eggs, so the population begins at the time of tillage.

"You can follow its development with heat units. At 250, most insects will begin pupating, a stage when they no longer feed. After accumulating 250 heat units since tillage, the grower should be at a time when it would be safe to plant."

Heat units are accumulated by adding the maximum and minimum air temperatures in Celsius from the previous day, dividing by two, and subtracting the base temperature. The base temperature for seedcorn maggots is 3.9 degrees Celsius.

For more information on protecting crops from seedcorn maggots, contact Ron Hammond, Department of Entomology, Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, 1680 Medison Avenue, Wooster, Ohio 44691, or call (330) 263-3727.

COMPACTION COMMANDERS
NO-TILL RIPPER/DEEP RIPPER - 3-5-7 Shanks

Brillion introduces their new Compaction Commander... designed to break up hardpan and compaction as deep as 20". The standard V-shaped alloy point and wear strip leaves residue on the surface with minimal soil disturbance. Auto-rest shanks with 20" of trip height allows for non-stop tillage. Parabolic shanks lift and fracture the soil. 39" of underframe clearance assures trouble free operation even in heavy residue.

LANDCOMMANDERS

KEEP HEIFERS FROM FIRST-CALF HEIFERS

Beef herds on heifer AI programs are finding that the replacement heifers retained from first-calf heifers provide the best genetics, combined with low birth weight EPDs and high maternal value. Since these heifers are sired by calving ease sires, a majority of them will reduce frame size and be earlier maturing than heifers from mature cows.

If your management is on target, these heifers will often be the older ones, ready to breed before the main cowherd. In fact, one common mistake producers can make is selecting heifers on adjusted weaning weights, often ending up with many younger heifers in their replacement group. These heifers could be 45 days younger than the majority of your calf crop and may not reach puberty in time to breed them ahead of the cow herd. By choosing older heifers, you can avoid these problems and keep your replacements from the cows who calved first.

Good replacement heifers are certainly worth the expense of raising them. Knowing the genetic potential of the heifers and cows in your herd can help make important selection and culling decisions.

Replacement Ewe Lambs

Ewe lambs born in March and April are excellent candidates to be used as replacement ewes in spring lambing flocks. With proper feeding and breeding management, spring-born ewe lambs should have lambs by the time they are 12 to 14 months old.

Ewes that have their first lambs as yearlings have a higher lifetime production than ewes lambing first as 2-year-olds. Select the fastest growing twin and triplet ewe lambs for replacements. Not only is there an advantage in improved prolificacy, but twin and triplet lambs have a more moderate growth rate, which prevents excess fat deposition in the udder. Lifetime milk production may be reduced in ewe lambs grown at an accelerated rate before reaching puberty.

Ewe lambs should weigh approximately 60 percent of the mature body weight at the time of breeding. That equates to a weight of approximately 100 pounds at breeding for most commercial crossbred ewe lambs.

Expose the ewe lambs to rams for 50 days. Use marking harnesses to monitor breeding activity. To ensure proper development, ewe lambs should receive 1 pound of grain daily up through lambing. To prevent excessively large lambs at birth, grain should not be increased during late gestation.

Medicated Early Weaning

Medicated early weaning (MEW) is a method of reducing the exposure of pigs to a wide spectrum of pathogens with the aim of reducing the incidence of diseases in pigs. This system is based on the principle that in a closed, well-managed herd, the balance between immunity and infection tends to reach a stable equilibrium.

The MEW technique involves (1) medicating the sow diet with broad spectrum antibiotics before farrowing and until weaning, (2) removing pigs at an early age (10 days or less) from the sow and placing them at a new location, and (3) giving the litter appropriate medication (broad spectrum antibiotics) from birth until five days after weaning.

MEW has been found to be effective in eliminating the organisms responsible for enzootic pneumonia, swine dysentery, pseudorabies, and one of the organisms responsible for atrophic rhinitis, Bordetella bronchiseptica, and other organisms. Post-weaning mortality is increased (ranging up to 12 percent to 25 percent) and there are additional costs due to off-site sow facilities and extra labor. However, substantial beneficial effects have been reported in the finishing performance of MEW pigs: 14 percent increase in average daily gain and 9 percent improvement in feed efficiency.

Producers considering early weaning or wean-to-finish programs are urged to attend the Penn State Animal Housing Expo at the Lebanon Fairgrounds on Tuesday, Nov. 18. Beginning at 10 a.m., the swine program will feature topics on "Adjusting to Three-Site Swine Production" and "Designing Facilities for Wean-to-Finish Production." A producer panel will feature on-the-farm experiences with these production methods. For more information, contact your county extension office.

Get Older Horses In Shape For Winter

If you own older horses, make sure they are in good physical condition before winter sets in.

Twenty years for a horse is equivalent to 70 years for a person. And, like people, older horses need more care in the winter than they did when they were younger.

Older horses are not as efficient as they once were in digesting food. During cold weather, these horses need extra energy to keep warm. So, have them gain weight and get in good condition before winter.

A horse is in good condition if you cannot see its ribs and have to apply slight pressure to feel the ribs as you move your hand over them. 'Once they get thin, it's hard to return older horses to good condition. Also, thin horses are more likely to get diseases and parasites.

If good-quality pasture isn't available, older horses need high-quality, soft hay. Legume hays are better than grass hays because they provide more energy, protein, vitamins, and minerals.

If your older horse is not in good condition, feed it three to six pounds of grain or commercial feed daily. If the horse is too thin, you may need to feed it greater amounts. If you use more than six pounds of grain, feed twice a day.

A pellet feed may help if the horse has a chewing problem. A vitamin-mineral supplement also may help an aged horse. Vitamins are important in various digestive processes. Some studies also indicate a mineral supplement may aid bone mineralization in older horses.

If your older horse has not been on a routine parasite control program, deworm it before winter. Deworm for bots after the second killing frost. And remember, some anti-parasite drugs aren't effective against bots. Your veterinarian can advise you on specific products and methods of deworming.

Check your horses' teeth before winter. Older horses often have sharp points on the cheek teeth. The points are on the inside of the lower teeth and the outside of the uppers. Float or rasp off these points.

Older horses also are prone to lameness. So trim their hooves periodically throughout the winter.

Herbert Hoover Farney says, "I didn't think they could mix it."

Steve, Dale and Herbert Hoover Farney
Silvery Falls Farms - Lowville NY

Mr Farney is talking about mixing 11.5% long stem dry hay by ration weight in the Knight Reel Auggie 3450, which he and his sons decided to purchase in September of 1994.

Herbert was born the day Herbert Hoover was elected president.

The Farneys previously owned a three-auger Oswalt stationary unit. They state that the "old mixer tended to ball material up, especially in wetter forages, while the Reel Auggie 3450 'fluffs' the ration."

The Farney's herd average is up about 1,000 lbs., and they have a higher protein test as well. They milk 160 Holsteins, and feed a total of 260 head. They like the low power requirement — the 390 cubic foot machine is powered by a John Deere 2030 tractor.

Performance Starts here With Superior Design Row Units

KINZE ROW UNITS

You start with a simple, dependable row unit design with easy adjustments that give you exact depth control, and the most ideal seed-to-soil contact possible. At KINZE we call it "Precision Placement." Simply put, it's the toughest most dependable system in the field today.

How does it work? At the exact point of seed placement, 15" double disc openers and dual gauge wheels combine to mold a clean, consistent V-formed seed trench at a pre-set depth. Trailing V-closing wheels then securely press the seed trench walls on each side of the seed for positive seed-to-soil contact, virtually eliminating air pockets and leaving a loose "hill" of soil on top of the seed. It's the ideal environment for the emerging seedling.

Each row unit is indpendently adjustable for depth and down pressure. Spring-loaded parallel arms give you all the flexibility you need. Down pressure? Your choice. Standard, quick-adjustable dual springs for conventional planting, or quad springs (shown right) for conservation tillage. Each with four positions so you can set the unit's down force for your conditions.

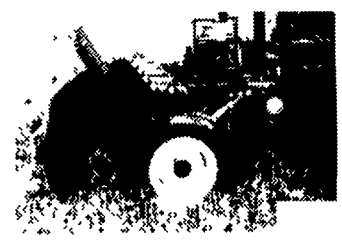
Ask For A Zone Builder 3 Pt. Ripper and Open Up the Hard Pan for Winter Moisture Absorbtion and Better Deep Freezing Action in Your Soil

Slicing Through Hardpan: Zone-Builder™ Implement From Unverferth



Unverferth

The Zone-Builder deep tillage implement slices through tightly compacted hardpan creating a passageway that allows plant roots, soil moisture and nutrients to move freely into the subsoil with minimal surface soil disturbance.

The Zone-Builder implement eliminates the yield-limiting effects of hardpan and is the first step in making the transition to the Rawson™ Zone-Tillage soil management system.

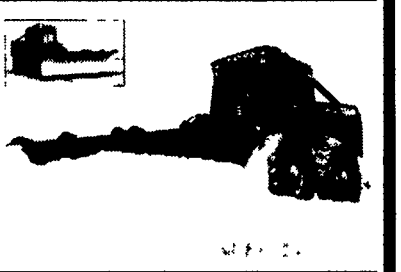
BLIZZARD RELIEF '98

Clear snow fast, effectively with a Loftness snowblower

Heavy snowstorms can turn parking lots and driveways into treacherous tundras. Unless, of course, you have a Loftness snowblower attached to your New Holland Super Boom™ skid-steer loader. This is one hearty snowblower that chews up all the snowflakes that winter can dish out.

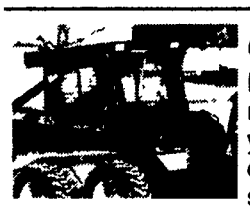
Winter meets its match with Snow Wolf snow plow



When the snow starts to pile up, you need a plow that can push it out of the way fast. That's why you should hook up to a Snow Wolf snow plow to your New Holland Super Boom™ skid-steer loader. The Snow Wolf is rugged and dependable enough to keep a clear path all winter long.

Sweep away dirt, debris or snow with a Sweepster Broom

Power sweepers are multi-purpose four season, clean-up machines. Clean snow all Winter from streets, driveways and building entrances. In the Spring, keep your sweeper busy removing debris from intersections and roadsides. Remove thatch and get turf areas in shape for the Summer growing season. Sweep gravel, sand and trash from bridges, parking lots and sidewalks. In the Fall, sweep up leaves and pine needles before the snow flies.



Cab Enclosure

Reduce the amount of noise, dust and weather in your cab with an enclosure. Includes sliding side windows, front door and windshield wiper/washer. When used with the block heater, it's perfect for winter use.

Heater/ Defroster

Keep warm and have a clear view of your work all winter. Used in conjunction with cab enclosure kit and floor cover plates.

$50.00 Off Skid Steer Loader Cab Enclosure Kits and Heater Kits Until Nov. 13

CASE

The CASE IH Axial Flow Combine Might Not Be Perfect, But It Gets Closer Every Year.

Since 1977 CASE IH combine engineers have worked to perfect the design of their AXIAL FLOW machines... They are unmatched for their combination of POWER, PERFORMANCE, RELIABILITY, DEPENDABILITY, and PRODUCTION capabilities.

Twenty years experience with Axial Flow combines running on Eastern Farms taught us:

1) You spend less time in the combine per acre, because you can start earlier in the day and work later...

2) The grain sample is cleaner with less cracked grain, because the Axial Flow system is gentler on your crops.

3) You have little or no downtime because Hoobers stock parts and have experienced Combine service technicians to keep you running.

4) Hoober people know the differing crop conditions encountered in PA, MD, NJ and DE, because they have worked with them from the beginning.

CAN YOU AFFORD NOT TO OWN A HOOBER AXIAL FLOW COMBINE?

50 YEARS OF SILO FILLING!

Marlin Brubaker at Little Britain Ag Supply is in his 50th year of custom silo filling. And this year, with a Claas 860 Harvester, he harvested over 2,000 acres. Congratulations!

At M.M. Weaver & Sons, Inc., we admire Marlin Brubaker's steadfastness and we're pleased to have been able to serve him through the years. In 1993 he bought the first Claas 695 Harvester we sold, in 1995 he bought our first 860 Claas Harvester, and in 1997 Marlin bought our first Row Independent Corn Head. Thanks for your business.

The header shown below is the one Marlin Brubaker used this year to harvest 2,000 acres of corn.

HARVEST CORN NO MATTER THE ROW SPACING WITH NEW RU450 INDEPENDENT CORN HEAD

Claas of America offers the RU 450 row independent converging corn head for its self-propelled forage harvesters. The RU 450 enables corn to be harvested no matter the row spacing or direction harvested and features a working width of 14'9".
The head features three rotating drums which cut and deliver the crop Double transport discs on each drum capture the corn plants for crop delivery The mowing disc, located under the transport discs, cuts the crop and then delivers it to the feed augers The three-symmetrical rotors assure even crop flow to the feed rollers.
The chainless rotor drive system is made up of universal drive shafts and oil bath gearboxes. Drives are protected by low maintenance overload clutches. With fewer moving parts than a conventional corn head, the RU 450 requires less maintenance resulting in higher output
Transport of the head is done by activating a hydraulic valve from the cab which folds the outer rotors into a vertical position

SELL ME THAT GOOD COW THAT YOU CAN'T GET PREGNANT.

If you have one or more good dairy cows that you can't get pregnant; call me. I can use about 100 cows. I will feed an all natural mix; breed them and give you first chance to buy the cow back pregnant. You pick the bull; and seven to eight months pregnant when I sell her at the fair market value. You save money on hauling and shrinkage and I will pay you a little extra for the better cows.

The last time I ran an add for Open Cows Wanted; I got a lot of calls from Dairymen wanting to know what I am doing; then they wouldn't sell me the cow after I told them; so I will just tell you now. I use Formula M on your cow; breed to a top A.I. bull and sell her back to you seven or eight months pregnant. The success ratio is near 100%; but if you know the cow to be cystic; please tell me when you call; because the procedure is different for cystic cows. I will take cystic cows; but it will be helpful if I know they are cystic when I buy them.

I am only interested in the better cows with GP, VG or EXC. Mammary.

I prefer 1st and 2nd calf heifers.

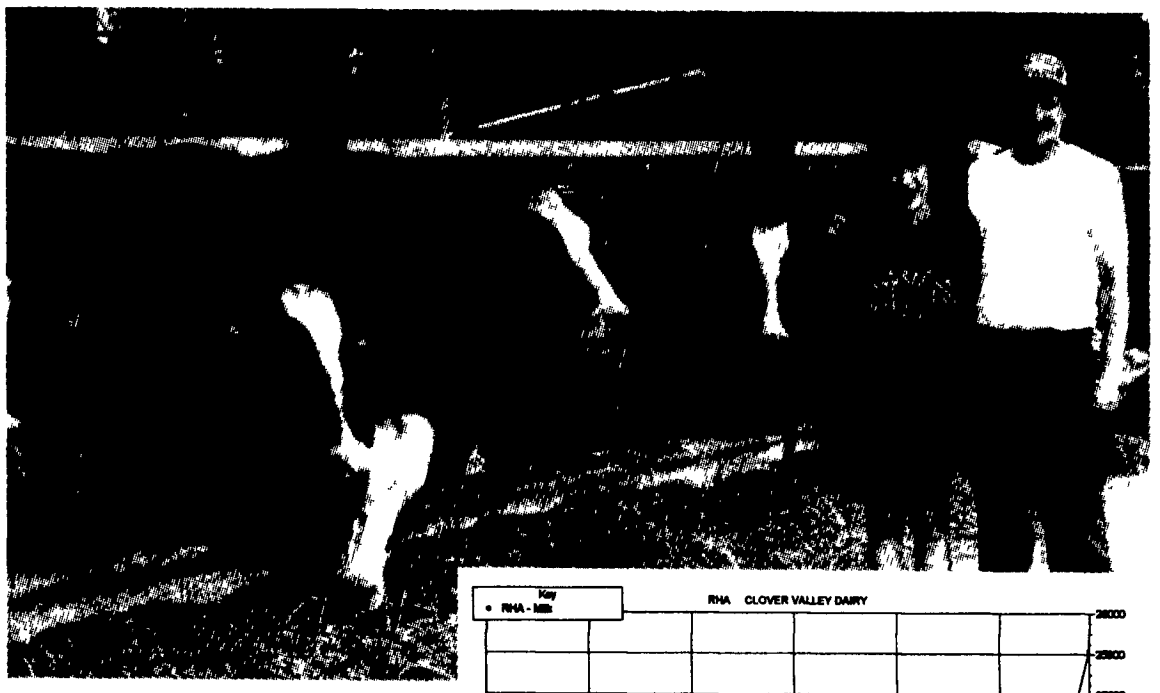
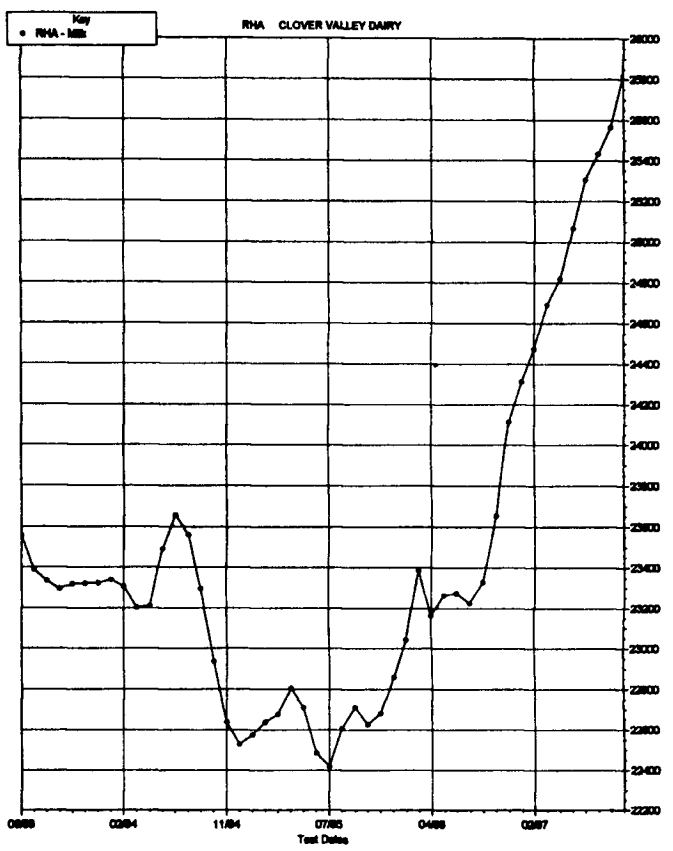
Improving THE BOTTOM LINE

DOES THE AIM™ TECHNOLOGY HAVE A PLACE IN THE HIGH PRODUCING COMMODITY ORIENTED DAIRY FARM?





YOU BET IT DOES!

Fred and Kathy Wainwright operate Clover Valley Dairy in Florence, NJ milking in excess of 300 cows. Fred started using the AIM Technology in September of 1996 and since that time his RHA has gone from 23,200 to its current level of 25,800 milk (2X).

"The complementary blend of all plant proteins in the AIM Technology provides a consistent high quality amino acid profile. We have used the AIM Technology and an extruded soybean product to replace distillers grains and fish meal. This aides me in achieving my goal of meeting my bypass protein needs from a wide range of sources. In addition to my own herd, I do ration work for a number of area producers and the AIM Technology is a great asset in working with these producers to meet their performance goals. In today's dairy economy a product has to perform for me to consider using it. I can't afford something that doesn't earn its keep. The AIM Technology has met and exceeded my needs and expectations."

Nutrition is never the sole reason results like these are achieved. Fred has used BST since it was first approved, beds with sand, has well ventilated facilities, never lets the cows see an empty bunk, provides quality water easily accessible and does all of the other things top managers do to achieve results such as these.

The AIM Technology has earned its way in this top producing herd with the kind of results that are needed in today's dairy economy. Contact your Mater Mix Feeds Rep today to see how the AIM Technology can fit into your program.

4-H Adults Attend Leaders Conference

DOYLESTOWN (Bucks Co.) — Heather Glennon and Patricia Freiler, Bucks County 4-H agents, and Mary Grayeske, 4-H volunteer from Macungie, recently returned from the Northeast Regional 4-H Leader's Forum in Hagerstown, Md.

More than 375 adult 4-H volunteers and teens from 13 states attended the recent event held at the Ramada Inn and Conference Center, Hagerstown.

Forum activities revolved around the theme, "Volunteers Give 4-H A Lift," and included hands-on workshops, inspirational speakers, and field trips to places of cultural, historical, and educational interest.

John Carrington, former 4-H educator in Maryland, a magician, and a motivational speaker was the keynoter at the opening banquet. Judy Pugh, a home economics educator in Maryland, was the Saturday night banquet speaker. Her topic concerned the need for laughter in our daily lives and how good we can feel when we laugh.

In addition to the adult volunteers, several states sent teams of teens to participate in teaching some of the workshops and attending others of interesting topics that they could share by teaching other youth and adults when they return to their states.

For information on 4-H for youth and adult volunteers, call Penn State Cooperative Extension, (215) 345-3283.

New Tractors Offer Versatility

RACINE, Wis. — Case Corporation introduces its most versatile line of utility tractors ever with the unveiling of the Case IH C Series and CX Series models.

These tractors, offered in six sizes ranging from 40 to 84 PTO horsepower, perform a wide variety of farmyard and field work while providing an outstanding environment for operators.

"Our customers told us they were looking for a lot of functions coming from tractors in this class," said Bill Weber, Case marketing application specialist. "Since they're used so much, farmers also want them to be comfortable."

"We're excited about the role these tractors can play, and so are the farmers who helped us with the design."

The versatility starts in the setup of the tractors, Weber said. All the models — the CX50, CX60, CX70, CX80, CX90 and CX100 — are available in flat platform or cab configurations, with mechanical front drive available if desired as well as loaders, so operators will be able to choose an equipment combination tailored to their needs. Straddle style tractors, identified as C Series models, are also available in all six sizes.

The engines deliver an optimum package of power and economy, Weber said. "The engines develop up to 37 percent PTO torque rise and high maximum torque to pull through the tough spots, yet they're very economical. Combined with the 40-gallon fuel tank on the cab and flat platform models, that efficiency provides extended hours of operation before refueling."

Easy, reliable starts are another important feature for a versatile tractor. "These models start well, and the new combustion technology results in less visible smoke and cleaner operation," Weber said.

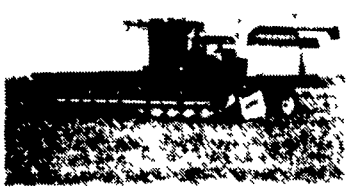
The hydraulics of the new series are stout, he noted. Total hydraulic capacity is 26 gallons per minute, with 18.4 gallons per minute sent to the hitch and remotes. This capacity results in exceptional flow for every job, decreased cycle times and increased lift capacity. The oil level in this system can be checked cold, to make maintenance easier.

Gleaner Expands Combine Fleet

ATLANTA, Ga. — Gleaner expands its combine fleet with the development of a new C-Series conventional model. Called the C62, the class six combine joins the lineup of four Gleaner R-Series rotary models currently in the field.

The new C62 has a wide 61.5-inch feeding area, incorporates new threshing and separating systems, and sports a 300-bushel grain bin that unloads at 2.2 bushels per second.

"While this is a conventional threshing system, more than half of the combine comes from the best engineering in our rotaries," said Jerry Weaver, general marketing manager, Gleaner combines. "Several field-proven designs in our rotaries, like the exclusive accelerator roll system that speeds grain through a high-velocity air blast for quality cleaning, are incorporated into the C62."



C62, the class six combine, has a wide 61.5-inch feeding area, incorporates new threshing and separating systems, and sports a 300-bushel grain bin that unloads at 2.2 bushels per second.

Weaver said the C62 is "a conventional combine witih an unconventional design." According to Weaver, the threshing and separating systems use the best of traditional combine thinking while building on Gleaner's longstanding natural flow design that conveys the crop in a straight line to the concave and cylinder.

The C62 is powered by a Cummins C Series diesel engine (505-cubic inch/8.3L, 260 SAE hp) that connects to a hydrostatic transmission. The combine can be fitted with a choice of high capacity heads which include a rigid, flex, draper, stripper, and windrow pickup.

The Hugger corn heads with their 21.5 degree entry angle are available with 4- to 12-row configuration and include both narrow and wide row setups.

Pfizer Launches FFA Fund-Raising Opportunity

EXTON (Chester Co.) — FFA chapters and members across the U.S. can benefit from a new fundraising opportunity known as the Dectomax Next Generation Program, offered exclusively by Pfizer Animal Health.

The Next Generation Program makes collecting cash as easy as collecting bottle caps from Dectomax 1% Injectable bottles, or box tops from Dectomax Pour-On boxes.

"We are excited to offer this industry-wide opportunity to FFA members across the country," noted John Landon, senior market manager for Pfizer Animal Health. "We are pleased to continue our long-standing support of the FFA, and think this is an excellent opportunity for livestock producers to also support an organization that will set the future for our industry. We encourage producers and veterinarians everywhere to take a close look at this offer and contact your local FFA chapter to learn more how you can help raise funds for the FFA programs."

There are three ways an FFA chapter can benefit from the Next Generation Program. FFA chapters that enroll will be given the opportunity to receive $3 for every Dectomax bottle cap or Pour-On box top they collect and return to Pfizer. In addition, participating chapters will receive a supply of rebate forms to give Dectomax users. For each of these validated rebate forms a producer submits, the designated FFA chapter will receive an additional $3. Producers who choose to can designate any portion of their product rebate to be directed back to their local FFA chapter.

Pfizer Animal Health also has established a Next Generation Scholarship program, offered through the National FFA Foundation. Beginning in spring 1998, Pfizer will provide a $1,000 scholarship to an FFA member pursuing continued education in agribusiness or animal sciences, and graduating from a participating Next Generation FFA chapter. This scholarship will be funded through a dowry fund, resulting from a $1 Pfizer commitment for each Dectomax bottle cap or pour-on box top submitted by participating chapters. Additional scholarships will be offered as funds exceed the $1,000 level.

Balers Wrap Nutrition In Five Round Sizes

ATLANTA, Ga. — The fixed chamber design of the New Idea 4800 round balers helps producers wrap high nutrition bales — with soft, star-shaped centers — while using economical, low PTO hp tractors.

The 4800 Series includes the 4844 which wraps a 4x4-foot bale using only a 44 PTO hp tractor. The 4845 makes a 4x5-foot bale with a 50 PTO hp tractor. The 4854 builds a 5x4-foot bale with a 60 PTO hp tractor. The 4855 creates 5x5-foot bales with a 65 PTO hp tractor.

The largest model in the line, the 4865, rolls out a 6x5-foot bale with only a 70 PTO hp tractor.

All five models use New Idea's microprocessor-driven electronic bale controller. The wrapping mechanism features adjustable bale density springs and the tying system uses an electric actuator which controls the activity of dual twine arms. Full bale alerts are signaled by the monitor indicator and an electronic horn.

The fixed chamber design of the New Idea 4800 round balers helps producers wrap high nutrition bales — with soft, star-shaped centers — while using economical, low PTO hp tractors.

The pickup has an optional reversible hydraulic drive. Rubber-mounted double tines and an open throat design assure fast and gentle hay gathering to quickly start and uniformly wrap bales. All five balers operate at PTO speeds of 540 RPM and the Model 4865 can run at either 540 or 1000 RPM.

Badger Has New Rear Unload Forage Boxes

ST. NAZIANZ, Wis. — Badger Farm Systems has extended its line of forage boxes to include new 18-foot and 20-foot rear unload models.

These forage boxes capitalize on the company's new resources and its long history of providing rugged and reliable farm equipment. They reflect the quality and performance that results from high tech engineering and state-of-the-art manufacturing processes.

A superior strength unitized steel box and understructure incorporates full length steel stringers with other formed high strength steel frame members to form a durable integrated assembly. The box is flex-designed to handle changing terrain. Full length side sheets are made of tough, corrugated 20-gauge aluminized steel.

Badger Farm Systems has extended its line of forage boxes to include new 18-foot and 20-foot rear unload models.

For convenience, the rear door opens automatically when the unloading apron is engaged. It closes and relocks when the box is empty, without having the operator leave the tractor. The door's hinge point is as high as the roof for unobstructed unloading. The roof has a heavy duty edge protector, and is rafter-free for unobstructed loading.

Unloading is hydraulically driven with heavy duty chain reduction, and can be done in about 1 to 1½ minutes.

Seedway Acquires Farm Seed Business

HALL, N.Y. — Seedway Corporation announces the acquisition of Robson's hybrid field corn and farm seed business.

Don Wertman, Seedway president said, "We look forward to supplying the Seneca brand products to the Robson dealer network as well as introducing the broader Seedway products offering."

"The Seedway and Robson product lines complement each other and should provide additional sales opportunity to both sales groups," said Dick Robson, president of Robson.

Seedway and Robson have been competing neighbors, operating from contiguous warehouse locations in Hall, N.Y. for the past 25 years. The consolidation made good business sense to both companies, according to Robson and Wertman.

Penn State Hosts Dairy Feed Workshops

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Dairy industry professionals interested in expanding and updating their knowledge of nutrition and feeding management can take part in a one-day workshop sponsored by the College of Agricultural Sciences.

The workshops will be offered at five locations during the week of Nov. 10-14.

Coordinated by Jud Heinrichs, professor of dairy and animal science, and Virginia Ishler, program assistant in dairy and animal science, the sessions will be hosted by a Penn State Cooperative Extension agent at each site. The seminar schedule:

• November 10. Indiana County extension agent Gene Schurman hosts the session at the Garden Gate Restaurant in Butler from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

• November 11. Somerset County extension agent Robert Brown hosts the session at the Ramada Inn in Somerset from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

• November 12. Franklin County extension agent Phil Wagner hosts the session at the Lighthouse restaurant in Chambersburg from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

• November 13. Lancaster County extension agent Glenn Shirk hosts the session at the Harvest Drive Family Restaurant from 7 a.m. to noon.

• November 14. Bradford County extension agent Jacob Guffey hosts the session at the Bradford County extension office in Towanda from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

All workshops except the Nov. 13 session in Lancaster will be split into morning and afternoon sessions. The workshop in Lancaster County will be a morning session only with breakfast served at 7 a.m.

In the morning session, topics will include how to determine energy values in feeds, the effect of protein nutrition on a dry cow's metabolism, and heifer growth and its effect on mammary development.

The afternoon session will feature an update on Professional MAP, an update on the Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association, a talk on mineral nutrition and metabolism, and a case study of a Pennsylvania dairy farm. The Nov. 13 session in Lancaster County will not include the case study.

Besides Heinrichs and Ishler, the conference speakers include Lisa Holden, assistant professor of dairy and animal science, Bill Weiss, associate professor of animal science from Ohio State University, Jim Boyer, Pennsylvania DHIA representative, and Penn State graduate students Brian Lammers and Dana Putnam.

Late registrations will be accepted as space allows.

Registration fee for the workshop is $40, and includes breaks, meals, reference materials, and other costs.

For information or to register, contact Virginia Ishler at (814) 863-3912, or write 324 Henning Building, University Park, PA 16802. Checks should be made payable to Dairy Management Conference.

What's All The Buzz About Beekeeping?

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — People are swarming to the hobby and business of beekeeping. But to avoid getting stung by a lack of knowledge, beginners need reliable sources of information and sound scientific advice on management practices.

The Pennsylvania State Beekeepers Association will provide novice and experienced beekeepers alike with an opportunity to learn more about their avocation at the association's annual meeting, Nov. 14-15 at the Country Cupboard Inn in Lewisburg.

"There has been a recent surge in interest in beekeeping," said Jennifer Finley, association president and entomology research technician in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Many people have noticed that there are fewer honey bees in their gardens and yards, and they've decided to keep their own colonies to help pollinate their flowers and vegetables," Finley said. "Others are interested in the sideline business of selling honey or beeswax products. But with challenges posed by parasitic mites, diseases and market competition from imports, beekeeping isn't as simple as it used to be."

To help prospective beekeepers get started, the association will offer a seminar for beginners on the afternoon of Nov. 14. Workshops will address the biology of bees, management through the seasons, mite and disease management, and honey production.

During the workshops on Nov. 15, experienced beekeepers will receive valuable information on the biology and control of tracheal mites, how health problems plaguing queens can affect the entire colony, preparing honey for show, creative production and marketing of bee-related products, and photographing honeybees.

"The sessions on mites and diseases are especially important for beekeepers, because inspectors this year have found high numbers of mites in the state's apiaries," said Maryann Frazier, Penn State extension bee specialist. "If beekeepers aren't careful, they risk losing their colonies over the winter."

For more information on the annual meeting or for registration details, contact Yvonne Crimbring at (717) 673-8201, Maryann Frazier at (814) 865-4621, or Jennifer Finley at (814) 865-1895.

DAYCO SUPER II V-BELTS

Now there's a belt that beats the toughest drive problems.

Many heavy duty industrial machines demand more than conventional wrapped v belts can stand. Their punishing drives make ordinary belts crack under pressure. The result: unnecessary and expensive downtime.

Now there's a solution to the consistent costly problem of replacing or retensioning belts. It's the revolutionary new Super II™ v belt from Dayco. The Super II belt was designed specifically for the most brutal applications. And its performance blows the cover off conventional wrapped belts.

In heavy torque, high horse power and extreme shock load comparisons, it's not even a contest. The Super II v belt is stronger, more flexible, and lasts far longer.

Innovative design & construction provide extra strength and stamina

The secret to the Super II v belt's durability is its unique construction. The central position of the polyester cords in the neoprene rubber core provides greater strength, balance and longer life. Multiple fabric plies, top and bottom, enhance flexibility. And Dayco's unique raw edged construction gives it a better grip for controlled slippage.

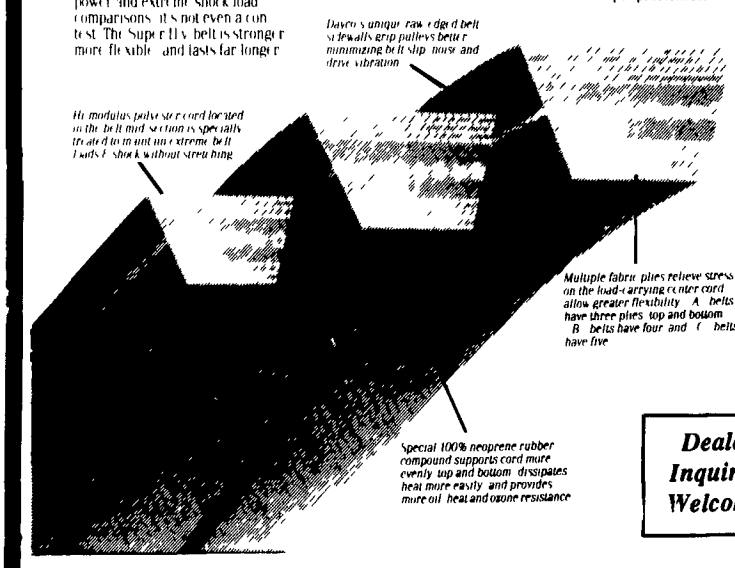
These attributes, combined, make the Super II belt superior to conventional wrapped belts in every way.

Test the Super II v-belt on your toughest drive

The Super II v belt was field tested for two years on the most severe applications: rock quarry shaker screens, lumber mill tree debarkers, and pipe descalers. In every case, it outperformed conventional wrapped belts by a wide margin. But the only test that really counts is the one you do on your own equipment.

Try the Super II belt on your toughest drive problem. You'll be so amazed by its incredible endurance that you'll want to put it on all your drives. In fact, we're so sure you'll be pleased with the performance of the Super II v-belt that, in the unlikely event you're not satisfied, we'll refund the original purchase price, or replace it with a conventional wrapped v-belt.

The Super II v belt from Dayco. The super problem solver.



Dayco's unique raw edged belt sidewalls grip pulleys better minimizing belt slip, noise and drive vibration
Hi modulus polyester cord located in the belt mid section is specially treated to withstand extreme belt loads & shock without stretching Multiple fabric plies relieve stress on the load carrying center cord allow greater flexibility. A belts have three plies, top and bottom. B belts have four and C belts have five
Special 100% neoprene rubber compound supports cord more evenly, top and bottom, dissipates heat more easily and provides more oil, heat and ozone resistance

Department Offers Grants to Youth Organizations

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Rural youth organizations may apply for direct grants of up to $2,500 to fund their educational projects and activities, Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. announced. The deadline for applications is Dec. 5.

"Our youth are the future of agriculture, and we're pleased to offer these grants under the Agricultural and Rural Youth Organization Grant Program," Hayes said. "The grants help these organizations expand activities that increase knowledge and awareness of issues specific to rural areas."

A total of $50,000 is available for the grant program, which is funded by proceeds from a trust fund through the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Since 1992, six previous rounds of funding have been distributed.

Grants can be used by organizations such as 4-H and FFA to fund educational projects, programs, seminars, or field trips designed to increase awareness of agricultural and rural issues. Applications must be postmarked by Dec. 5 to be considered.

Recipients will be selected by the 13-member Agriculture and Rural Youth Grant Board, which includes representatives from the Agriculture Department, Education Department, the Pennsylvania Rural Electric Association, a vocational-agriculture teacher, the Pennsylvania State University's Cooperative Extension, 4-H, FFA, the Pennsylvania State Grange, the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives, and the General Assembly.

Applications and additional information about the program are available from Carl Muller, Room 310, PA Department of Agriculture, 2301 North Cameron St., Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408. The telephone numbers are (717) 783-9944 or (717) 783-3181.

The seven regional offices of the department also will have applications:

- Region 1, Meadville, (814) 332-6890 (northwestern Pa.);
- Region 2, Montoursville, (717) 433-2640 (northcentral Pa.);
- Region 3, Tunkhannock, (717) 836-2181 (northeastern Pa);

World's Oldest Breed Of Cattle Competes At Big E

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — One of the world's oldest cattle breeds descended on the Eastern States Exposition in West Springfield, Mass., for the 1997 Eastern States Exposition Regional Highland Show, complete with a bagpiper to announce the animals' entrance to the show ring.

This unique breed, easily recognized by its long shaggy coat and wide, sweeping horns, attracted many breeders and an interested audience alike to the show, the first of its kind at The Big E.

The animals vary in color from silver/white, blond, and dun (gray) to red, brindle and black. Mature Highland bulls typically weigh 1,700-2,000 pounds and the average cow weighs 1,000-1,300 pounds at maturity. Despite their long horns, they are docile, even-tempered animals, according to Chris Hawkins, breed representative and exhibitor from Lancaster, N.H.

The Highland breed is believed to have originated in the Western Isles and Highlands of Scotland, where the environment is harsh and severe. They have evolved into an extremely hardy breed that can withstand extreme weather conditions. They have two coats of hair, a thick and wooly inner coat that acts as a blanket to retain heat, and an outer long and shaggy coat that sheds rain and protects the inner coat from becoming damp and cold.

Hawkins said he really promoted the show to the breeders, saying that "for the breed and the association, we needed as much public exposure as possible." He added that the exposure is good for not only the fair-going public, who may not be familiar with Highland cattle, but for other breeders to meet and talk with each other about their Highlands.

The show, heavily supported by the Northeast Highland Cattle Association, was well-attended. Twenty-two exhibitors paraded 65 animals before Judge Dr. Scott Barao of College Park, Md. This year's show was the 18th annual Northeast Regional Show.

This show also had the notoriety of being the first one where a separate junior show was held for junior exhibitors. This January, the second will be held at the National Highland Show and Sale in Denver, Colo.

Hawkins, who has been raising Highlands for eight years, now has 14 animals in his herd. He and his wife, Sue, specialize in Highlands with first-generation Scottish bloodlines. He serves on the board of directors for the Northeast Highland Cattle Association, and is editor of the national breed journal.

The Highland breed is the oldest breed known to man. It was the first to appeal in the earliest herd registry of 1884. Hawkins said beef from Highland cattle is very lean and flavorful, as the inner coat layer keeps the animal warm, preventing the need for a layer of fat. This makes the final product very desirable to consumers, who are looking for a low-fat alternative to the more traditional breeds of beef.

Many of the Highland exhibitors showed their cattle while wearing long white laboratory coats. This attire is considered traditional in the British Isles, where Highlands originated and are frequently shown. The coats lent an authentic air to the show, as did the bagpiper who announced the cattle with the sounds of Scotland.

Mike Kerr, a native of New York now living in the Boston area, was dressed in a green and navy plaid kilt and full Scottish attire, played his bagpipes throughout the show. A third-generation Scottish musician, this is the first time he has played at a cattle show in the 24 years he has played the pipes. Kerr said he enjoyed playing the music and felt the exhibitors and the audience thought it added to the experience.

One of the exhibitors at the show, the Faulkner family of Stoddard, N.H., has one of the longest histories with Highland cattle. Their Pitcher Mountain Farm first imported Highland cattle to the United States in the 1940s. The first Highland cattle were imported into this country by North Dakota residents who were looking for a hardy, low-maintenance breed of cattle that could survive the harsh conditions.

The first Highland registry was established in Deadwood, S.D. There are now a number of regional associations, including the Northeast Association, as well as the Mid-Atlantic, Appalachian, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Mountain States, Northwest, and California groups. The Northeast group has more than 250 paid members representing 24 states and Canada, and approximately 4,000 head of Highland cattle.

Other results of the show are as follows:

Compost Exam Set Nov. 21

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) Secretary Lewis R. Riley has announced that the next Composting Facility Certified Operator Examination is scheduled Friday, Nov. 21 at MDA's headquarters building in Annapolis.

"The Composting Facility Operator Certification Program is designed to ensure that an operator of a commercial composting facility is knowledgeable about composting methods and systems and is familiar with compost regulations," said Riley.

"Composting is an expanding industry in Maryland for recycling a variety of organic wastes, such as yard debris, crab processing wastes, livestock and poultry manures, or municipal solid wastes. The MDA has been given the responsibiltiy to make sure that commercial compost products are properly labeled and are produced by a composting facility with a certified operator," Riley said.

The certification exam is open to qualified individuals from the private or public sectors who have experience or education in commercial composting of organic wastes. Interested persons should submit a completed application to MDA.

Applications will be accepted as long as they are postmarked by Nov. 13 or faxed to MDA by that date. An application for operator certification or additional information may be obtained by calling the State Chemist Section's Composting Program at 410-841-2721 (fax: 410-841-2765). A list of recommended study materials will be mailed to all qualified applicants. There is no fee for the examination.

For more information, contact David A. Tibbetts, State Chemist Section, at MDA, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401, (410) 841-2721.

Cattleman Produces Dam Of Distinction

LIVINGSTONE MANOR, N.Y. — Stone Ridge Farm, Livingston Manor was recently recognized by the American Hereford Association (AHA) for producing one cow named to the Dams of Distinction list.

"These are the most efficient cows in the Hereford breed," said Dr. John Hough, AHA's director of research and performance. They've met the strictest requirements for early calving, reproductive efficiency, calving intervals of no greater than one year, and weight ratios in the top end of the breeder's herd.

Some 3,646 cows were named to the prestigious list for this year. A complete listing of the cows and the 941 breeders who produced them is published in the November 1997 issue of Hereford World, the breed's official publication.

Cut stall clean-out time by 50% with a Millcreek Compact Spreader.

"The spreading efficiency sure outweighs the price. This is a wonderful machine. I couldn't be more pleased."
EARL SINKS - Brock, Texas

Say "Good-Bye" to back-breaking manure handling and cut stall clean-out time in half. Hook an affordable Millcreek Compact Spreader to your 10 hp garden tractor, take it right to the stall for easy loading. No more wheelbarrow.

Millcreek Spreaders last and last
Since spreaders are our specialty, we put more into each one. For example our 20-year guaranteed floor will never rust or rot. Positive chain drive provides excellent spreading action. And tough steel construction holds up to rugged farm use. Seven sizes, for 1-horse barns to 50-horse stables. PTO and ground drive models available.
